Drive To Kill Taft-Hartley Act Forecast

Democratic Senator Murray Says He'll Sponsor Repeal Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Murray (D-Mont) said today a new drive for outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act may be the Democrats' answer to Eisenhower administration discord over labor policies.

Murray, top Democrat on the Senate Labor Committee, said in an interview he intends to sponsor a repealer in the next session of Congress and to make the matter an issue in next year's congressional campaign.

"Secretary of Labor Durkin's resignation indicates very clearly that any Taft-Hartley amendments the Republicans offer are not going to be the kind promised by President Eisenhower in last year's campaign which would be sympathetic with the workers' program," Murray said.

Wants Entire Act Killed

"The entire act ought to be repealed and I intend to move in that direction."

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) of the Senate Labor Committee expressed regret and surprise over Durkin's resignation Thursday. Smith said in a telephoned statement he had "understood that conversations would continue to the end that a labor program might be developed and legislation prepared for introduction in Congress early in January."

Sen. Hill (D-Ala), another Labor Committee member, said he regards Durkin's resignation as indicating that the Eisenhower administration is "not going to come up with any modification of the Taft-Hartley Act that will satisfy labor."

Durkin, a Democrat, quit the Cabinet to return to his post as president of the AFL plumbers and steamfitters union, saying White House aides had broken an agreement with him to put the administration's support behind 19 proposed Taft-Hartley law changes.

19 Recommendations

Durkin declined to detail the changes on which he said agreement had been reached. However, 19 points also were contained in a proposed message to Congress never actually sent to the lawmakers but leaked to newsmen during this year's session.

Among them were several embodying concessions demanded by labor, such as lifting the present ban on many secondary boycott practices, greater leeway for employers and unions in the construction field to establish pre-hiring labor contracts and union shop agreements.

Management spokesmen complained the suggested changes unduly favored the unions. The White House said the document was a "preliminary draft" of matters still under consideration.

In Philadelphia yesterday Chairman McConnell (R-Pa) of the House Labor Committee said he knew of no basis for Durkin's assertion that the White House had promised support for 19 changes in the Taft-Hartley law.

PIKE CRASH INJURES 10

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP)—Ten persons were injured in a collision on the New Jersey Turnpike today involving about half a dozen cars.

The crash occurred about a mile from the spot on the turnpike where 20 vehicles piled up in a chain reaction crash in a smog, last Saturday injuring 20 persons.

Charge Pole Kidnaped by U.S. Officers

Letter of Protest Read Before Korean Truce Commission Officials

PANMUNJOM (AP) — The Polish member of a four-nation commission policing the Korean truce charged today that a Polish interpreter who fled to freedom was kidnaped by American Army officers and demanded his immediate return.

Jan Hajdukiewicz, a 28-year-old civilian interpreter, broke from a truce inspection team at a South Korean air base Wednesday and was given political asylum by U.S. officers.

Whereabouts Secret

The Army won't say where Hajdukiewicz is now. There has been speculation that he was flown either to Tokyo or Okinawa.

Maj. Gen. M. Wagrowski, senior Polish officer in Korea, Saturday read a letter of protest at a meeting of the armistice supervisory commission.

The letter charged that Hajdukiewicz was kidnaped by American officers and demanded his immediate return.

The letter was addressed to Gen. Mark W. Clark, U.N. commander, and was not submitted to the commission.

The commission took no action on the letter, said Maj. Gen. Sven Grafstrom, Swedish delegate and commission chairman. Grafstrom said the commission would not intervene. He said the incident was a matter between the Polish delegation and the U. N. Command.

Contents Not Divulged

The Red Peiping radio said a written copy of the letter was given to an Allied liaison officer at Panmunjom Friday for delivery to Clark. The U. N. Command confirmed a letter had been received, but would not immediately divulge its contents.

Peiping said Wagrowski "protested against this violation of the rights guaranteed to the neutral nations inspection teams by the armistice agreement and demanded that Jan Hajdukiewicz be returned to the inspection team."

The commission met for two hours and 35 minutes, took up only routine matters after the protest, then scheduled another session for Monday.

In Washington, the Pentagon released more names of 944 American military personnel believed to have been captured in Korea but still unaccounted for.

Among the missing prisoners identified by the Pentagon Saturday was Capt. Harold Fischer of Swea City, Iowa, a double jet ace whom the Reds identified as a prisand then did not repatriate.

Red news correspondent Wilfred Burchett told newsmen Friday Fischer and other airmen the Communists claim were shot down over Chinese Manchuria were not

Damage Light

Heavy Storm Hits City, Cuts Electrical Service

A heavy thunderstorm that cut power in Marion for about an hour and one-half hit the city this morning about one o'clock.

The high winds and heavy rains disrupted electrical service in most sections of the city for more than an hour. Nearly all residential areas were without lights and business places in the downtown area were forced to carry on operations by candlelight during the period.

Tree Limbs Down

Police reported today residents from all sections of Marion called headquarters to report fallen tree limbs and branches blocking the streets.

A $40 fire was blamed indirectly on the power failure. A roomer in the Milner Hotel tried to get some light in his room by burning a candle.

The match he used fell into the bedding and ignited it. The mattress was badly burned. Firemen from the Central station were called to quell the blaze.

Several tree limbs were reported down in the E Center and the Greenwood St. area.

The Sheriff's office reported no calls had been received during the storm.

Four Accidents Result

Four accidents were investigated by police during the storm. One motorist was injured when he apparently was unable to see and struck a parked car.

The Associated Press reported a 70-year-old Lima woman was killed near Wapakoneta when she was thrown from her car in a collision at a darkened intersection of highways U. S 25 and 33.

The same storm which hit Marion had disrupted electrical service in that area causing the traffic light at the corner to be out of service. The woman was Mrs. Bertha Barr. She was riding in an auto with her husband, O. W. Barr and another couple, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Crider, also of Lima.

Highway Crews Busy

The three other occupants of the car were injured when they struck a-truck driven by George Love Jr., of Randolph, N. Y. Love was not injured.

Ohio Department of Highway employes were kept busy for three hours removing debris from Routes 47 and 203. Limbs were down on Route 47 north of Prospect and three men were kept busy clearing the highway.

Three trees were felled on Route 203 between Newmans and Prospect scattering branches and wood over a one mile area Four men were dispatched to clear the fallen timber.

Weather bureau observers reported a total of one-tenth of an inch of rain fell in a short but heavy fall

General Telephone Co officials reported no interruption of service and no damage to any of their lines.

Officials of the Ohio Edison Co. could not be reached for a report of damage resulting from the storm. A telephone operator at the company said the power failure was caused by high winds but could not give the location of any break in power.

Temperature Drops

Weather bureau officials reported a cool air mass moving into the area after the storm this morning caused temperatures to drop three degrees in one hour. Between 10:30 and 11:30, the mercury here dropped from 67 degrees to 64 degrees.

The official forecast is for even lower temperatures over the week end.

The storm apparently hit even harder in the Upper Sandusky area where tree limbs were scattered over many sections of the highways.

Crash Claims Life Of Bucyrus Marine

BUCYRUS — A 22-year-old Bucyrus Marine, Pfc Paul T. Volkmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clemente Volkmer of near Bucyrus, was one of three servicemen killed in a two-car crash near New Bern, N. C. Friday night.

The two other servicemen killed were: Edward R Swinburne, 40 of Falls Church, Va., USN, driver of the other car; and Darrell E Fondelle, USN, stationed at Cherry Point Air Station, N. C.

Five other men were injured in the accident.

State highway patrolmen said the Swinburne car ran off the highway on the right side, then swerved across the road out of control and crashed into the car Volkmer was driving.

Volkmer was stationed at Cherry Point Air Station near New Bern and was to be discharged in November. He was drafted in November, 1951. A 1949 graduate of Lykens High School, he was employed at the General Electric Co. in Bucyrus before going into the service. He was a baker while stationed at Cherry Point.

He was one of six children. Surviving are brothers and sisters, Lloyd and Murray of Bucyrus, Janet, Arlo and Wade, at home.

'Miss America' Of 1953 Will Be Picked Tonight

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The Miss America hopefuls went into the last day of the week-long contest today, as nervous as 52 bridesmaids waiting for someone to throw them a bouquet.

With the preliminaries over the girls will wait out the day until the final judging tonight, when ten finalists will be named and the elimination progresses until the winner of the $50,000 title is chosen.

Six of the contestants have a big jump on the field—their victories in talent and bathing suit preliminaries in the past three nights.

Last night 21-year-old Miss Delaware, Lois Ann Alava of Wilmington, won in the talent division by playing the cadenza from Grieg's piano concerto in A minor.

Miss California, Patricia Ann Johns, an 18-year-old beauty from Fresno, wore a white bathing suit (one-piece as required by contest rules) well enough to win in that division last night.

The other bathing suit winners on earlier nights were Miss Wyoming (Elaine Lois Holkenbrink of Torington) and Miss Pennsylvania (Evelyn Margaret Ay of Ephrata).

The other two girls with firsts in talent are Miss Virginia (Anne Lee Ceglis of Norfolk) and Miss South Dakota (Delores Jerde of Spearfish).

But the girls also are judged on how well they look in an evening gown and on their personalities. Results of these preliminaries are not announced and add a large amount of uncertainty to any forecasts.

CONCILIATOR RESIGNS

CINCINNATI (AP)—Federal Conciliator James McNamara, named as a Communist during hearings of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has resigned.

He said today he will testify before the committee in Washington Tuesday. He declined to disclose the nature of his testimony.

Senator To Air Army Charges Before Public

McCarthy Says Paper Contained Clearcut Commie Propaganda

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he plans public hearings designed to show whether he was justified in releasing an intelligence report which the Army had labeled a "restricted" document.

The senator told newsmen the hearing will be held before the Senate investigations subcommittee, which he heads, but he did not say when.

Parts Withheld

McCarthy contends he made the report public Wednesday because it contained "clearcut Communist propaganda." But the Army said in a statement yesterday that McCarthy had withheld sections of the report which made it obvious the document was not Communist propaganda.

Besides, the Army said, releasing any of the report disclosed information affecting national defense "within the meaning of the espionage laws."

The Army statement did not mention McCarthy by name or any plans to try to prosecute him—an action that seemed unlikely in these circumstances. But it said of the document:

"The transmission or revelation of its contents in any manner to any unauthorized person is prohibited by law."

Unauthorized disclosure of material bearing such classifications as "restricted", "secret" and so on is punishable by up to 10 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Report Declassified

The criticized report was declassified yesterday by the Army because of its prior disclosure.

"I have no choice but to go ahead and expose it publicly," McCarthy said in telling reporters he expects to hold public hearings on the issue before his subcommittee.

"Of their intimation that there was something wrong with exposing this propaganda," he said, "they are not going to hide any Communist propaganda or Communist behind a label of 'restricted'."

McCarthy said the document, dealing with conditions behind the Iron Curtain, was "95 per cent Communist propaganda" and was sent last year to 37 Army commands, mostly in the Far East.

The Army said it was designed to give intelligence officers an "understanding of the Soviet people which will be militarily useful in case of war." It said only a few copies were printed for limited distribution.

Act To Spike Rumor

Lucille Ball Never Red, House Probers Declare

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Lucille Ball, television's top comedienne, never was a Communist, says the House Un-American Activities Committee, even though she registered as one 17 years ago.

The wide-eyed star of the popular "I Love Lucy" show freely admitted to committee investigator William Wheeler that she registered March 19, 1936, to vote for the Communist ticket "because Grandpa wanted all of us to."

But she emphatically denied ever being a party member or voting for party candidates.

"There is no evidence that Miss Ball is or ever was a party member," Rep. Donald L. Jackson (R-Calif), committee member, told a news conference last night.

Seeks To Quiet Rumors

Jackson explained he called the conference at the behest of a majority of committee members so that rumors implicating Miss Ball, 42, with communism could be scotched.

If the rumors hadn't become widespread, he added, it is unlikely the committee would have made the disclosures, since it had known for several years of Miss Ball's registration.

Jackson said that there is some question as to whether Miss Ball ever voted the Communist ticket, but added that this point will be cleared up today with the release of the transcript of her testimony before Wheeler.

The same time she registered, Jackson said, she signed a nominating petition for Emil Freed, Communist party candidate for the 57th California Assembly District. He said this also was at the request of her grandfather, Fred C. Hunt, now deceased, and who, the actress said, made the political decisions in the family.

Others In Family Registered

The actress was quoted by Jackson as saying that in addition to herself, her mother, Mrs. Desiree Ball, and brother, Fred H. Ball, all registered to vote Communist in 1936.

Miss Ball's registration lapsed two years later, records showed, because she failed to vote in 1938.

Jackson said Freed appointed Miss Ball a member of the state central committee of the Communist party, but added that Miss Ball denied having authorized him to do so.

Testimony of Communist party members of the 1930s corroborated Miss Ball's statement, Jackson said. He said they testified they never saw her at a party meeting of any sort.

Show Must Go On, Insists Star TV Comedienne

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It was the most hectic day of her life for Lucille Ball but as TV's Lucy, she was never funnier.

The top-ranking comedienne refused to call off her television show last night although some of her associates urged her to The show is filmed before a live studio audience for later release.

Before the show got under way, husband Desi Arnaz addressed the studio audience of 300:

"I want to talk to you about something serious . . . Lucy has never been a Communist—not now—and never will be."

The audience, composed of fellow workers and outsiders, let loose with a burst of applause that lasted a full minute.

"I was kicked out of Cuba," Arnaz continued, "because of communism. We despise everything about it Lucy is as American as Barney Baruch and Ike Eisenhower.

"By the way, we both voted for Eisenhower—so ladies and gentlemen, don't judge too soon—read for yourselves. Read her story. Don't believe every piece of bunk you read in some papers."

Then Arnaz introduced his wife as "my favorite redhead. That's the only thing red about Lucy and even that is not legitimate."

The studio audience cheered

600 U.S. Reds Among Clergy, Witness Claims

Probers Told 3,000 To 4,000 Others on Fellow-Travelers List

WASHINGTON (AP)—Once - secret charges that Communists successfully infiltrated American churches today were spread in open files of a congressional investigation.

One witness said 600 U. S. clergymen are "secret" members of the Communist party and three to four thousand others are in "the fellow-traveling category."

The House Un-American Activities Committee, which resumes its sessions late this year or early in 1954, made public the detailed testimony yesterday.

It came from former active Communist leaders and told of how the Reds, unable to destroy religion by frontal assaults, bored from within to seek their goal with the aid of unwitting dupes and pawns.

One witness, Manning Johnson of New York, said not even the Reds themselves expected to achieve the success he said they realized.

Another, Benjamin Gitlow of New York, testified: "In the infiltration of the Methodist church, the Communists were highly successful."

A third, Joseph Zack Kornfeder of New York, called the fifth column plan "rather effective."

Johnson was described as a Communist from 1930 to 1940 and a member of the National Negro Commission of the Communist party national committee from 1934 or 1935 to 1940 and a member of the party's national committee from 1936 to 1938; Gitlow as a top U. S. Communist leader from 1919 to 1929, and Kornfeder as a Communist from 1919 to 1934.

They testified last July at committee meetings in New York The meetings, not open to the public, were called ostensibly to investigate communism in the New York area. However, the hearing tran-

Gets Far East Command

Gen. Hull, Native of Ohio, Named Successor to Clark

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. John E Hull, a desk officer for much of his 36-year military career, leaves the Pentagon soon to command troops along the uneasy truce line in Korea.

The tall, strapping Ohioan was named by President Eisenhower yesterday to succeed Gen. Mark Clark as supreme United Nations commander in the Far East. Clark retires Oct. 30.

Hull, now 58, has not seen combat since World War I when, as a junior infantry officer, he won the Silver Star for gallantry during the Aisne-Marne offensive.

His World War II years were spent in the less dramatic but vital jobs of handling operations for all the far flung overseas theaters. He worked closely in this work with Gen. George C. Marshall, then Army chief of staff.

Hull became something of an expert on atomic weapons five years ago when he had charge of

Pollution of Rivers In Critical Stage, Porterfield Claims

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state health department today reported pollution of streams and rivers has reached a critical stage in many parts of the state due to the severe drought.

Dr. John D. Porterfield, state health director, said the present situation emphasizes more than ever the serious need for installation of more and better sewage and waste treatment plants by municipalities and industries.

"The present condition is extremely critical because many small streams have dried up completely and large streams have dropped in level until there is practically no flow," Dr. Porterfield said.

Family Service Set

A Church Family Reunion built around the theme, "We all go to church together," will be the emphasis for services at Epworth Methodist Church Sunday.

Members have been enlisted through a congregational letter to invite others to bring their families "not just for study but for worship" with the idea of "families together sharing a family pew." This is directed in a special way to any who have been gone for the summer, and to college students who will take with them from the community the remembrance of a spiritual experience of having shared this worship service with the church family, as an inspiration in days to come. There will be a nursery for pre-school children during morning worship hour, but all children of school age and young people are invited to sit with their parents. There will be adults to share the worship experience with children who do not have a family, but the idea of family loyalty will be stressed.

The anthem for morning worship will be "Worship," Shaw, by the choir.

Open house for post high school and college young people will be Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at "Our House," Epworth youth center, and at the church parsonage for an informal "get acquainted time" with the pastor, Rev. W. C. Eyster, and his family. For the period preceding at "Our House" a special "surprise" will be featured.

A committee of young people have been at work making plans for a Youth Retreat the following Sunday afternoon and night at Camp Owens near Marion, for Youth Division officers, parents, teachers, and counselors. The theme will be "Life's Greatest Scrimmage." Another group has made plans for a general cleaning and preparation of "Our House" for use in the fall program for the children and young people of the church.

Organizations of the church meeting next week include the Married People's Class Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the church, the Sweney Class that night, entertained by Mrs. Fred Ellery, Mary-Martha Circle Wednesday night, Mrs. Larry Rainier, hostess, and Circle 1, potluck meeting at 12:30 p.m. Thursday with Mrs. W. Alfred Tennyson . . . 'Poet of the endless life'

Queen Victoria reigned longer than any ruler in the history of England—63 years, seven months, two days. Alfred (Lord) Tennyson was the greatest man of letters in Victoria's reign. For more than 40 years he was poet laureate of England. And, considering his boyhood verse (he published a volume at 18), he wrote poetry longer than Victoria sat on the throne.

There is no need to elaborate on the works of Tennyson or the scope of his thinking. Nearly every Anglo-Saxon who attended even grade school during the last half century is familiar with his genius. Suffice it to say here, but for his belief in God, Alfred Tennyson could never have written as he did. As one writer so aptly put it, "His faith in the life that is to come elevates and purifies his conception of the life that now is." And because that faith runs through much of his poetry, he has been called "The poet of the endless life." Tennyson himself once said, "What the sun is to that flower, that Jesus Christ is to my soul."

It was on an afternoon in October, 1889, when in his 81st year, the aging poet paused by the seashore and formed in his mind one of his greatest poems. That evening after dinner, at his home in Farringford, he put the verses on paper. His son read them and, turning to his father, said, "This is the crown of your life's work." Tennyson replied, "It came in a moment."

Three years later, to the month, the poet "passed away with the moonlight falling on his closed eyes" in the quiet of his home. Just before he died he said to his son, "Mind you, put 'Crossing the Bar' at the end of all my poems." And, appropriately enough, it was sung at Westminster Abbey when he was laid to rest.

For quantity, few have written more than Alfred Tennyson. For quality, none has written better. His works are said to be "as perfect as anything of their kind in the world's literature." Had he been a minister like his father, he would have, in the course of a lifetime, preached to tens of thousands. As a poet, he has preached to tens of millions in this hymn-poem that came to him "in a moment."

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark;

For, though from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crost the bar.

Maranatha Church To Start Religious Broadcast Sunday

A religious radio broadcast sponsored by the Maranatha Bible Church will be instituted over Station WMRN Sunday at 10:15 p.m. in charge of the pastor, Rev. Earl L. Holliday. This will be a Bible Fellowship program, to continue each Sunday night, featuring local musicians, with Rev. Holliday as speaker.

First 14 weeks will be devoted to a Bible study course, "Rightly Dividing the Word of Truth." The lessons on the air will be supplemented with three sets of examinations sent to those wanting to take the course, Rev. Holliday stated. After grading, the examination papers will be returned, and a certificate will be issued on completion of the series. Other booklets and tracts will be available to listeners. The broadcasts will be from the WMRN studios until repair and redecoration work of the church is completed.

On the staff for the program, besides Rev. Holliday, will be Fred Peters of Ashland, music director, Misses Patty Holliday and Loretta Caskey, pianists, Misses Barbara Newsome and Vera Trent and Mrs. Avalyn Fogle, vocal soloists, Marsha Johnson and Tom Condron, trumpeters, Floyd Dearth, who plays the musical saw, and other local musicians. Miss Newsome, Miss Trent, and Miss Dixie Piatt will sing as a trio under the name of the Gospel Karoleers.

Love

A Sermonette

By REV. W. LINCOLN STAFFORD
Pastor of Wesley Methodist Church

"The greatest of these is love." I Cor. 13:13.

Love. Love is the big word. Unfortunately it is much misused. The real currency has many counterfeits. A man may say, "I love you," when he means "I want to play with you." A woman may say, "I love you" when she really means "I want you to be my meal ticket" or "I want the honor of being a married woman." Parents sometimes think they love their children, when their real desire is to dominate them and make little copies of their own personalities. But the fact of the existence of counterfeit love only serves to "highlight" the true value of the genuine article.

We have heard ever since we were children the Bible verse, "God is love." When we truly understand the meaning of this verse, we have salvation. The reason it is so hard to accept is because we have been hurt so much by those we have tried to love. These betrayals, frustrations and rebuffs from parents and others, make it very difficult for us to believe in the existence of love. Consequently when we read "God is love," we may say "Yes" with our minds, but with our hearts we say, "It is too good to be true." We need something which will enable us to believe in the love of God, not only with our minds, but also with our whole hearts.

It may be necessary for us to spend much time reviewing our past life and systematically understanding and forgiving every person who has ever in any way hurt us. We should forgive every man, woman, and child, now living in the body, or discarnate. Also we must forgive all events and experiences of our lives. We must forgive our present situation or status in life. By this process of forgiving everyone and everything, we make a vacuum in our hearts, into which God eagerly pours His love. The love of Christ shines like a candle and gradually grows brighter until it is like the noonday sun. "It shines like a lamp within a darksome spot till the Day dawns and the day star rises within your hearts." II Peter 1:19 (Moffatt).

Thus, gradually we find out that we are love-millionaires—that we have an inexhaustible supply of love, enabling us to love everyone. We discover that to love is to live, and to hate is to die; that the more we love, the more we live; the more we hate, the less we live; the more we love, the more heaven we have; the more we hate, the more hell we have. As Rufus Mosely would say, "Is not it ridiculous to live in hell when we can just as easily live in heaven? Isn't it foolish to be stingy and miserly with our love, when we have all the vast infinite reserves of the bank of heaven at our disposal? We are truly saved when we discover that we don't have to use any other method in dealing with anyone or anything than the method of love. Then God truly dwells within our hearts."

My suggestion is that we say "God is love" hundreds of times every day. This will transform our lives.

Unit Officers Seated By County WCTU Head

Church Extension Service To Mark Anniversary

Marking the first anniversary of the Oak Knoll Baptist Chapel, an extension work of Emmanuel Baptist Church which has been established in southwest Marion, public services will be held Sunday afternoon.

Ground given for the purpose of erecting a church building will be dedicated and there will be a groundbreaking ceremony. The congregation has been worshiping in rooms of a house which was given for the Sunday School and preaching services. Pastor of the chapel is W. A. Hough who recently closed his grocery business to devote full time to his church work. For some time he has been active in Emmanuel Church's congregation and is associated with the Soul Harvester Mission, Inc.

The dedication rites will be at 2:30, and giving the special message will be the Rev. C. E. Hershey Emmanuel Church pastor. He will speak on "The Church Ordained of God." The Oak Knoll pastor will tell of the work of the chapel to the present time Edward Murphy, the Sunday School song leader and a teacher, together with Miss Mildred Morris, also a teacher, and pianist, will be in charge of music. Harley Kelley will offer prayer, and Scripture will be read by Walter Osmun.

Details of plans for the new building are yet to be worked out. The type of structure to be erected has not been decided so far. Its size will be adequate to take care of growth of the Bible School enrollment which stands now at about 35. Attendance at evening worship averages around 30.

First services sponsored by the Emmanuel Church as an extension work in the southwest section of the city were open air meetings in August of 1950 and in the same month the following year. Attendance and interest warranted some sort of continuation, it was felt.

A year ago, those in the area who were interested in the possibilities, together with Mr. Hough met in various homes for cottage prayer meetings "seeking the answer as to what should be done in regards to meetings at that time." After several of the prayer services it was decided to secure a tent for a week of evangelistic services, and following the close of the special effort, Mr. Hough used the Emmanuel Church's Bible School bus to hold Sunday School on Sunday afternoons. Later, the building now in use was secured. The schedule of services includes Bible School on Sunday afternoons, young people's meetings at 6:30 p.m. Sundays, followed by worship at 7:30. For Sunday night, the youth meeting topic will be "Gospel Seed," with Mrs. Hough in charge, and at the worship hour the pastor will give the last in a series of sermons on the general theme of "Signs of the Times," discussing "When Shall These Things Be"

Included will be a special study session which will cover the history of Judaism, Christianity, and the church with emphasis on Protestantism, "how we got our present denominations, and what they have that can help us as we labor together in God's Kingdom," the pastor, Rev. F. E Shoup, explained.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Things Make Sense When You Pray

On a recent trip, I was sitting at an airport lunch counter, having a cup of coffee and a sandwich while waiting for my plane. I was thinking over a speech for that night when, suddenly, I became conscious of a man who slipped into the seat next to mine, picked up my check and said, "I'll take care of this."

DR. PEALE

Naturally enough, I was surprised and asked why he wanted to pay my check. "I owe you a debt," he said. "I've read your newspaper articles, and I needed the help you give to those having personal problems. I seemed unusually tired and nervous and things were beginning to get me down; so I began to follow some of the suggestions in your column —so I think I owe you at least the price of a sandwich."

"You wrote about two scientists," he continued. "These men claim that prayer is a real science and that the Bible is a scientific book. When they wanted to solve a difficult problem recently, they called in a third man because the Bible says that if three are gathered together they will receive help. And you said their prayers got remarkable results."

"THAT'S SO," I nodded, "Those men believe the spiritual methods of the Bible operate with scientific precision.

"This was new to me," he continued, "but I had to try something. So I began to read the Bible and practice its techniques. I came across a passage in Mark which says: 'What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them.' This meant to me that I would have to think more positively about the things I wanted in life and I tried doing just that.

"Unfortunately, it didn't work very well at first, and I was tempted to give the whole thing up. But I went back to that same Bible passage first and read the next verse: 'When ye stand praying, forgive, if ye have ought against any: that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses.'

"Then I saw why it wasn't working for me. I wasn't forgiving people I knew. And the power of prayer and faith was being stopped by that resentment barrier and couldn't get through. So I went all out spiritually. I got down on my knees and had to pray quite a few times to get the hate out of my mind and heart. And then, suddenly, I began to feel that my prayers would get results. And they have. It is wonderful the way the power came through."

He concluded with a grin, "Things make sense when you pray."

HOW RIGHT he is. There is nothing old-fashioned about prayer, nothing stuffy, nothing dull. On the contrary, it is an amazingly workable power formula for victorious and useful living. The distinguished Nobel Prize scientist, Alexis Carrel, is his challenging new book, "Reflections on Life," a final summation of a lifetime of thought given to human problems, says: "Prayer does not consist in the dreary recitation of words whose sense we do not understand. Its effect is nearly always positive.

"Everything happens as if God listened to us and gave us a direct answer; unexpected events occur; mental balance is reestablished; our sense of isolation and importance and of the uselessness of our efforts disappears. The world ceases to be cruel and unjust and becomes friendly while a strange power develops in our own depths." So says one of the world's greatest scientists.

WHAT IS BOTHERING you? What is your trouble? What is your problem? What is your difficulty? The answer? Just start praying. First, fill your mind full of God thoughts and empty yourself of evey bit of evil you have in you. Then, have the faith to pray great, big, daring prayers. Pray unselfishly with outgoing good will in your heart.

What do you want to be? Tell the Lord you want to be that. What do you want to accomplish? Tell Him. What do you want to happen? Tell Him. And believe. Be prepared for Him to tell you no, for sometimes we ask amiss; but also be prepared for Him to say yes. Things make sense when you pray.

These Days

By George Sokolsky

John Walters, in a dispatch from Washington to the London "Daily Mirror," writes a biographical and political sketch of the American Secretary of State that must give the large number of readers of that newspaper an altogether false picture of John Foster Dulles.

SOKOLSKY

Each correspondent can only write what he sees, presuming that his object is to tell the truth. I have known John Foster Dulles for about 20 years and as I read the Walters article in the London "Daily Mirror," I could not help but wonder whether he was actually writing about the same man.

—:—

FOR INSTANCE, after painting Dulles as an isolationist, with a quotation to prove it, Walters says:

"Nevertheless, after Pearl Harbour, Dulles was on the bandwagon cheering his nation to victory. Although a Republican, he had a big job at the San Francisco Conference when the United Nations was established. And on and off he continued to serve the Democratic administration."

This can only be attributed to ignorance of our two-party system and of Dulles' role in the State Department. Actually, he served as a Republican in a Democratic administration. This is not unusual in American history, but in Dulles' case it was done with the consent of the Republican party as part of a device called the bipartisan foreign policy.

Perhaps I need to explain that I never believed in the bipartisan foreign policy, but it was accepted by both political parties. Actually its authors were Senator Arthur Vandenberg and John Foster Dulles, with the approval of Senator Robert A. Taft.

Its object was to present a united front on international relations no matter what the differences may have been on strictly domestic issues. The bipartisan foreign policy did not altogether work because President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson kept too many matters secret which should have been submitted, under the arrangement, to both parties simultaneously.

IT WAS AS part of the bipartisan policy and with the consent of his party that John Foster Dulles was attached to the State Department. Actually, he became a bridge between the State Department and the Republican party. In fact, I can state categorically that had Robert A. Taft been nominated and elected President, he would have appointed Dulles as his Secretary of State. Senator Taft told me that before the Chicago convention in connection with the planning of the foreign relation planks of the Republican platform.

His appointment to his present post as Secretary of State by President Eisenhower was therefore anticipated. It was at the time assumed that Dulles was appointed because of his close relationship to Governor Thomas E. Dewey. Actually, the Taft element in the party also supported him. The alternatives were Harold Stassen and John J. McCloy, both of whom the Taft group could not accept for many political reasons.

OF DULLES, the correspondent of the London "Daily Mirror" says:

"For Mr. Dulles is a dangerous man.

"As he races and veers from side to side, frightened spectators all over the world fear that his ultimate destination is disaster.

"Dulles claims to be guiding us all to a peaceful world. At the same time he destroys the chances for such a world by spurning full conversations with Communist China and Russia. He threatens and waves a big stick. He annoys America's friends as well as her enemies."

Who are America's friends whom John Foster Dulles annoys? This London "Daily Mirror" correspondent is not painting a true picture for his British readers.

The most expressive criticism of Dulles is that he had not driven out enough of the pro-Russian and pro-British employees of the State Department, held over from the discredited Acheson regime. Most Americans desire a pro-American State Department and hope that they will get it in due course.

—:—

THE UNITED STATES is not Great Britain or a British dominion and our way is, for better or worse, not the British way after some 300 years of history between us. And conversely, it can be said that the British way of life is not ours. The differences are numerous and need to be understood and respected.

If the two nations are to maintain their relations without developing an irreparable enmity, it is essential that news reports from London and Washington be accurate and correct and not designed to support temporary policies which may change overnight, meanwhile stirring up unnecessary ill-will.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

This is the story of a mystery man, unknown even in his native Germany, to whom the people of all free nations owe a vote of gratitude. His name is known to but a few. His office, though just a few minutes off the teeming Cathedral Square of Cologne's bombed-out depot, is small and unlisted and contacted only on orders of Chancellor Konrad Adenour, the most powerful friend America has in Europe today.

RIESEL

Yet, this man of mystery, Dr. Otto John, with fewer than 35 aides, made it possible for the German chancellor to roll up a tremendous pro-American victory. In a political moment when the Communists in France can pile up 5,000,000 anti-American votes and their Italian Comrades have put 9,000,000 such tallies on the recored, the Communists received fewer votes in Germany than they do in the U. S.

DR. JOHN proved that you can beat the Communist propaganda underground, on which our State Department says Moscow spends over $4,000,000,000 a year, only with counter-underground organization. It takes brains and daring — not millions, not heavy manpower. Dr. John proved that by wiping out both the Communist and the Nazi undergrounds in Germany.

Now that the crucial German election is over, proving that any people in Europe not subjected to a terrific, centrally directed anti-American campaign do consider the U. S. their friend, I can tell the story of Dr. Otto John and his little office — "Der Bundesant fur Verfassungsschutz." This means "The Government Bureau for the Protection of the Constitution."

I've held his story since early July, when I learned in Paris that the legal Communist party chiefs of West Germany were meeting quietly in Dusseldorf. They were planning the riots and the strategy with which they hoped to roll up a powerful anti-American vote in Germany. This would have meant that nowhere on the continent was the U. S. strong. Such a vote would have stopped the construction of "Little Americas" all over Germany.

IT WOULD HAVE stalled or crippled the four new airfields near the Kreuznach health resort, the Birkenfeld radar station, the nearby secret weapons experimental laboratory and huge munitions dump and the biggest training ground of all near the village of Baumholder. A Communist success in Germany would have meant that we were being told by all Europe to go it alone.

I wanted to know just what the Communist chiefs were planning in Dusseldorf that July 9. And I asked friends, who knew, just whom I could contact in Dusseldorf. Go to Cologne instead, they said. Look up Dr. Otto John, they sad. He knows.

I went by that fast express train through the Ruhr. In Cologne I learned that Dr. John was a special Secret Service man responsible only to Chancellor Konrad Adenour. He worked out of the Verfassungsschutz office located in Cologne to keep from becoming entangled in the national politics in the capital at Bonn. His job was to direct it as an anti-totalitarian intelligeance headquarters in a land only eight years out from under Hitler and already besieged by the neighboring Communists.

WITH LESS THAN 35 assistants his task is to prevent a political minority, be it Nazi or Communist, from plotting to seize the government by force. John has no power but to gather intelligence of such plots and report them to Adenauer, who provides special funds out of Bundestag budgets.

As soon as Dr. John reported that the Neo-Nazis, under Dr. Werner Naumann, former "Secretary of State" of Hitler's propaganda ministry under Goebbels, were plotting to seize the government, Chancellor Adenour contacted the British, for these plans were being hatched in their zone. The Nazis were arrested and exposed. As soon as Dr. John told of special Communist intrigue, Chancellor Adenour exposed them as well.

Thus it went through the years. The Nazi movement and the Communist following were wiped out without wiping out their parties. Not in a single German province have the Nazis or the Communists lost their right to participate in politics or to name candidates for office.

THE NAZIS AND Communists were deprived only of their "right" to conspire against the government, against the powerful trade unions and against the people — they were not deprived of their civil rights. Thus they were not martyrized — only depopularized by exposure of their conspiracies. This took organization. Dr. John had such excellent sources that he could immediately check, somewhere among the 10,000,000 refugees from behind the Iron Curtain, the identity of any stranger. Thus by intelligance work, the Communist underground was wiped out.

So the Moscow partisans rolled up only 2.2 per cent of the entire election vote. The Nazis got a mere 1.1 per cent. Adenour won. We won. The free world won. France and Italy, please note I am certain Dr. John has consulting hours.

Barometers Jiggle

Paper Orders Indicate Smooth Business Course

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business barometers are jiggling today. Some point to fair while others signal stormy weather ahead

That legendary financial barometer the stock market, took a nose dive Thursday

But another barometer that businessmen watch closely—orders for paper and paperboard packaging materials—is registering high confidence in the business pace for the weeks and even months just ahead Paper mills report orders large, and paperboard output and orders gained again this week, as business and industry gets set for expected high sales ahead

Merchants watching for the first sign of the seasonal after labor day pick up have the report today of Dun & Bradstreet that retail sales volume in the week ended Wednesday was off a little from last year But D&B points out that there was one less shopping day this year because of the Monday holiday

Layoffs add a sour note in some industries, notably in the auto field and among the suppliers of auto makers

But other barometers of industrial production remain high or climb higher Electric power production is at a record high — although the hot weather's refrigeration demand gets most of the credit Freight car loadings run ahead of a year ago

Steel output this week is dropping below 90 per cent of capacity for the first time in a year The Monday holiday was the big cut in

But the American Iron and Steel Institute cheerily reports today that in the 12 months ended Aug 31 this country's mills turned out a record 114½ million tons This was 2¾ times as much as Russia was able to do

Crude oil production is being cut back this week Despite this, the stocks of gasoline remain well above those at this time last year, and the stocks of fuel oil are near a record high As a result more companies are cutting back their refinery runs

If this doesn't bring demand and supply into better balance there's just a chance that this summer's hike in gasoline prices may be scaled down

On the general scene, businessmen are watching two barometers: Capital outlays, and inventories

The first needle is pointing straight up At present business is spending a record amount of money to expand its plant and tool up with new equipment But this needle is jiggling a little too Government agencies expect the spending to cool off slightly when cold weather sets in

Business inventories continue high

Bucyrus School Board Okays Three Transfers

BUCYRUS—By a vote of 4 to 1 the Bucyrus Board of Education voted last night to accept the transfer of three farms from the Whetstone school district to the Bucyrus school district

J E Huggins, an automobile dealer voted against the controversial issue which originated in January 1952 when Mr and Mrs Harold Krock, who live southeast of Bucyrus, petitioned for the transfer of their farm into the Bucyrus city school district They said their children would receive better schooling in Bucyrus

The decision left it up to Crawford County Board of Education members to decide whether they wish to carry it to a higher court

With the acceptance of the transfer six children will be transferred to the Bucyrus schools

The Bucyrus board's decision to accept the territory was the latest in a series of reversals suffered by the county board in its effort to fight any breaking up of school districts

Michigan State's all time career scoring record is held by Lynn Chandnois who scored 31 touchdowns in four seasons of play

Enrollment Climb Brings on Morrow Teacher Shortage

MT GILEAD—The eight Morrow County schools which opened Tuesday all reported enrollment increases according to figures released by local superintendents

The ninth school, Johnsville will not open until next Monday because of the death of one of the students Bonnie Eberle 8 of North Woodbury, who died Monday from polio

The total enrolment for the eight schools reporting was 3 445 compared to a total first day registration last year of 3 265 The increase amounted to 180 students Mt Gilead School reported the largest numerical gain with a total of 759 this year compared to a first day enrollment of 681 last year Most of the Mt Gilead increase was made up in their first grade where the largest single class ever to enroll in the county was reported Mt Gilead had 114 first graders the first day

Three additional teachers are needed as a result of the increased enrollment Sparta will need a third grade teacher and Iberia and Chesterville are both in need of an extra first grade teacher

The additional 180 students means a need of about five additional class rooms in the county according to Supt T A Gantz

Somebody Goofed

Whatever agreement Martin P. Durkin thought he had with the White House on remaking the Labor-Management Act was the result of a monumental goof by someone.

A secretary of labor should be too smart to make such a miscalculation.

All laws and this law in particular are the product of Congress, not of agreements between individuals in the executive branch. The instant it was revealed that Mr. Durkin intended to fix up the Labor-Management Act to suit himself and other union executives, Congress renewed its determination to strengthen, not weaken, the law.

The new members of National Labor Relations Board led by Chairman Guy Farmer renewed their determination to strengthen, not weaken, the law.

With no change likely now, as a result of the fiasco climaxed by Mr. Durkin's resignation from the cabinet, the Labor-Management Act will be interpreted in a way which will be the equivalent of amending it to the effect exactly opposite from that dreamed of by Mr. Durkin.

His resignation from the cabinet will be made the basis of an allegation that he was sold out by the Eisenhower administration. Whether he was or not is a moot question.

Something he was told before he accepted a cabinet appointment made him think he would be wasting his time in Washington as a dedicated foe of the Taft-Hartley Act. It was the late Sen. Taft's inability to conceive of any reason why a Stevenson Democrat should have been named to the Eisenhower cabinet that caused him to exclaim that the Durkin appointment was "incredible."

It was incredible Durkin was on record against one of the basic laws dealing with labor-management relations. Either he had to knuckle under in the presence of a Congressional majority which had been elected in spite of men like him, or they would have to play dead to accommodate his aims.

With due respect to Mr. Durkin, an able union executive by all accounts, he has extricated himself from an impossible situation

Quiet: Men Working

If no news is good news — and it usually works that way — some of the best news about the federal government in many a long year is being made.

Days pass with no news from Washington.

President Eisenhower's fellow citizens would be put to it some days to remember where he is or how long it has been since they heard from the presidential sounding board.

There is negative evidence, consisting of a deep silence, that the executive departments and agencies are taking advantage of congressional adjournment to buckle down to the unexciting but vital business of putting their houses in order.

The federal government has ceased to give the impression of a political honky-tonk.

Even the latest disclosures served up by Sen. McCarthy no longer have the snap and crackle which kept the senator in the news more consistently than any other individual in the federal government.

While critics of the Eisenhower administration may try to turn this comparative quiet on the Potomac into evidence that nothing is being done there any more worth noticing, it's a safe hunch that most citizens are enjoying the lull.

No one seems to be going out of his way to pick a fight. There has been an abandonment of the tried and true principle of partisan politics that the squeaking wheel gets the most grease.

There has been a clean-cut break with the credo that the only way to get anything done is to declare another national emergency.

Government has gone back to being what it always has been at its best — a process of maintaining order that satisfies its purpose by setting a good example.

If this is a calculated part of President Eisenhower's moral crusade — this impression of calm self-possession — it is being firmly quietly and pleasantly successful.

A Is for Accident

When the American Automobile Association held its 51st annual convention in Los Angeles, a casual listener could have been forgiven for wondering if AAA stood for American Accident Association.

Speakers before the oldest organization dedicated to the proper use of autmobiles stressed the need for more safety and less speed in automobiles.

They were bitterly critical of the continuous increase in horsepower with no accompanying increase in security from sudden death. They pointed out with pardonable sarcasm that cars built to go 100 miles an hour are absurd under existing traffic conditions.

They summed up their alarm by making the flat statement that the accident rate on the highway rises in direct proportion to the speed of automobiles. In short, the people interested in the proper use of automobiles are talking and working at cross purposes with the people interested in the sale of automobiles

Durkin Appointment Proves a Flop

The end of a political fiasco—that's about the best way to describe the recent deadlock of the White House on labor - law changes that has resulted in the resignation of Martin Durkin as secretary of labor in the Eisenhower cabinet.

For the idea of putting in the cabinet a partisan of union labor has proved a flop. Here was an executive head of a big labor union who, when he entered the cabinet, was merely on "leave of absence" from his union presidency.

He did not, therefore, completely sever all previous connections in the same way that other cabinet officers did when they found it necessary to sell all their stock and resign all directorships in corporations with which they had been identified.

Here was a labor - union official who continued to be the mouthpiece of his former associates and lifetime friends in organized labor.

Here was a man who felt it was his duty to represent the interests of labor unions and not the interests of either management or the public.

The natural sequel, after only about eight months of service, was a resignation.

What happened behind the scenes to bring the matter to a head probably will never be disclosed in its entirety. But the union-labor chieftains in the AFL and CIO kept pressing Secretary Durkin to obtain from the President an agreement on certain amendments to the Taft - Hartley labor-management law.

Steadily the pressure was exerted throughout the last several months. Members of the House and Senate committees on labor had been trying to draft amendments to the present law, but these were not acceptable to union-labor leaders. They wanted all or nothing.

Mr. Durkin put up to the President a series of amendments which was the minimum that the unions would accept. They made no pledge, however, that this was all they wanted or that they would support the administration if the amendments were recommended to Congress.

The President, with characteristic fairness, tried to see how many of the labor - union proposals he could accept and indicated in a general way that he favored a number of them.

Then came a curious episode. The draft of a presidential message to Congress, written in the style of a finished communication from the chief executive, leaked out.

"The Wall Street Journal" published it first, and other newspapers and periodicals followed. Businessmen became alarmed at the extent to which the administration had gone over to the labor-union side.

Thereupon it was announced at the White House that the message was only a "working draft" and was by no means final. Several of the Eisenhower aides favored it, but they had no authority to make any "agreements" with the labor side.

Secretary Durkin felt that the draft represented the least he could ask for and stay in the cabinet. He so notified the President informally, and, when he didn't get a definite commitment, he wrote a letter of resignation on Aug. 31.

The President consulted his associates. He felt apparently that he had no alternative but to accept it and that he couldn't be in the position of being pressured into a decision by anyone, especially a cabinet officer who represented one particular point of view.

If the President had had the benefit of good political advice, he would have selected a labor man of less partisan connections in the first instance.

The late Sen. Taft, who called the Durkin appointment "incredible," felt there were several other men from whom a good selection friendly to labor could have been made.

The Ohio senator said he would work with Mr. Durkin — he didn't vote against his confirmation.

Mr. Taft was ready to make certain legislative concessions, too, but not on issues believed by him to be fundamental in protecting the public interest. He didn't believe in special privilege for any group.

Actually it was a mistake for the White House entourage to become entangled in an effort to rewrite the labor law. It would have been sufficient to express general principles and leave it to Congress to write the law.

There is a two-thirds majority in both houses for a retention of the Taft-Hartley Act in substantially its present form. Very few amendments would have gotten through Congress, anyway, even if Mr. Eisenhower had accepted the Durkin viewpoint.

It would have been better politics for the President to have kept aloof from detailed recommendations altogether. It is not too late for him to adopt that course and let union labor wrestle with Congress, which is supposed to protect all the people and not just a privileged group. Writing legislation isn't an executive function.

Non-Partisan Chiselers

By TRUMAN TWILL

In case you haven't learned yet how things work in Washington, this is the secret as told to congressional investigators by Warren L. Stephenson, the latest congressional witness relating the endless story of how to suck a living from the U. S. Treasury.

"When all these people gather around and have coffee at 10:30 or whatever time it is, I float in there myself and have a cup of coffee with one or two people that I know. If you stand there long enough, and if you stand there for two cups of coffee, you will get enough information to last you for a couple of weeks."

The pitch in Stephenson's case was to pretend he knew enough to be worth a 4 per cent commission for blabbing what he knew to unscrupulous businessmen willing to pay for an inside track on defense orders. The difference between Stephenson and the 5 per centers who waxed fat during the war years is that he charged only 4 per cent, was on the Eisenhower campaign train and got caught before he feathered his nest.

The trick for the rest of us is to keep from growing cynical about government and the kind of people who are everlastingly trying to corrupt it with their dirty fast-dollar deals when they think no one's watching.

Also to keep from getting cynical about leeches and parasites that fasten themselves to public funds and keep coming for more faster than they can be pried loose.

Also to keep from getting down in the mouth about chesty chumps in uniforms and civvies who shoot off their mouths about the public business in coffee shops, then roll their eyes in fat-headed alarm if a newspaperman asks them to give out with something the public has a right to know.

Government has a tendency to sink to the level of its lowest common denominator, like all other forms of organized endeavor. It has a tendency to turn into a barrel of rotten apples, unless an alert citizenry keeps sorting out the rottenest apples and throwing them on the dump.

The best thing that could have happened to the new people in charge of cleaning up the mess left by the old people in Washington is to discover early in the game that leeches and parasites are nonpartisan

Likewise blabbermouths, coffee-sluppers and businessmen itching to slip a little under the counter for an inside track in pursuit of a fast and shady buck to be paid out of the sweat of every American who works for a living. They don't care who gets what was long as they get theirs.

We don't know how this Stephenson happened to get his nose under the tent. But it was there, though it got snapped in a trap. There can be a brand new mess in Washington if everybody will kindly look the other way long enough to give the kaffee-klatchers and chiselers room to maneuver in.

A couple of cups of coffee here, a couple there and there goes another million down the drain.

Toomer's Appointment Is Tribute to Race

By Frank Rossiter

When Louis Burke Toomer, 58-year-old Negro banker, goes to the White House late this month to take the oath as Register of the Treasury, it will be in the spirit that the appointment is no personal honor, but, rather, "A great tribute to my race."

"My appointment is significant in that top Negro Democrats had tried for 40 years to get this position for a Negro, but they weren't successful. It will react greatly to the benefit of the Republican party," Toomer said.

Toomer will be the third generation of his family to enter federal service under Republican presidents.

His grandfather, for whom he is named, was a delegate to the 1880 convention in Chicago that nominated Gen. U. S. Grant Later President Grant appointed him superintendent of mails here. The treasury official's father became registry clerk at the post office during the McKinley administration.

Toomer, president of the Carver Savings Bank of Savannah, originally was proposed by the state GOP organization and later considered by the White House for appointment to the $8,300 job as collector of customs here.

Word of this plan got to Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), who opposed the idea. The $10,200 treasury job was a compromise.

The treasury register started work at the age of eight delivering the Savannah Evening Press, and was the youngest carrier of that day. Because of his tender years, his aunt had to accompany him on Saturday night to collect from his customers. He recalls that he averaged about $1.50 a week from his route.

As a youth, Toomer worked in a sheet-metal shop in Savannah, managing to get in two years of high-school study in the meantime. With the approach of World War I, he tried to enlist in the army, but was balked by objections of his parents.

He went to New Haven, Conn., and worked in the Winchester Repeating Arms Co. plant where his knowledge of metal and his command of English got him the semiofficial job of gauger. He returned to Savannah after a stay of six years in the east then entered the real estate and banking field.

He was a prime mover in 1927 in organizing the Georgia Savings and Realty Co., that firm being merged with the Carver Savings Bank in 1946.

The bank has assets of $1,000,000 and is a member of the FDIC.

Cigar-smoking Toomer, a light-skinned man with wavy gray hair, holds the respect of all Savannahians He said that 50 years of work hasn't hurt him and that he is in fine physical condition. His 220 pounds, well-distributed over a 5-foot, 11 inch frame, bears out that statement.

Toomer was born in the Currytown section of Savannah on April 25, 1895 He is unmarried, and lives in a 10-room residence just off Victory Drive, one of Savannah's principal thoroughfares. His mother and two sisters also live in Savannah

His reading is confined almost solely to the city's two daily newspapers, which he covers thoroughly. He gets down to the office at 9.30 a.m. and leaves about 7 p.m. On Saturdays he quits at 2 p.m. Bank employees are on a 39-hour week.

An authority on realty values in the Savannah area, Toomer frequently is called upon by administrators and other bankers to appraise property

Toomer says, "Savannah has the best white folk of any place in the world," and he adds: "The bigger they are, the most tolerant and thoughtful you will find them."

He firmly believes that education will solve the race problem in the South, and notes the great strides already made.

Playing bridge is his only hobby, though he likes fishing and hopes to get in a little golf while in Washington.

The Negro leader has been active in Republican party circles since first getting a vote. He has served as county chairman and as chairman of the congressional district for the party.

He was in the center of the Dewey-Taft rift over the Georgia delegation and came out on top. Toomer voted for Dewey's nomination at two conventions and was on the Eisenhower bandwagon long before it started rolling.

Toomer is a great admirer of President Eisenhower He spent several hours with Ike at his home in New York last year and, like all bankers, made no bones about his fears over federal spending, especially as it related to foreign aid

"For 50 minutes he gave me the clearest and most beautiful explanation of the need for a foreign-aid program," Toomer said. "He thoroughly sold me on the need for sending money to Europe as a means of saving thousands of America lives."

Toomer is a deeply religious man and seldom misses attending church on Sunday.

The Negro banker plans to go to Washington next week to be briefed on his new job. The treasury has alerted him for a White House swearing-in ceremony sometime after Sept. 22, when President Eisenhower returns from Denver.

The Odds Are Unfavorable

By MARK DANA

The U. S. Census Bureau dispassionately reveals that there are a lot more American girls unwed in the "marriageable age" bracket of 18 to 24 years than single "eligible" men of a corresponding 21 to 27 age bracket.

If it be presumed that all these young women really expect and wish to get married, and that all the young men are eligible other than in years (both being dangerous presumptions), the law of supply and demand apparently is unfair to the ladies, and no doubt Congress should repeal it in January.

The census figures, however, do not include men in military service, and it is a tradition that at least two girls confidently expect a proposal from each uniformed youth when he comes home from the wars The return of these men eventually will ease the man shortage so casually revealed by the bureau, but right now the pairing-off situation is far from parity, and there's copious grief

It helps little to remind that there were 76,500,000 married women in 1952, a gain of a million over 1951. Let's look at some feminine figures, usually a pleasant chore For every 100 girls of 18 and 19, there are only 61 unwed boys of 21 and 22, as against 89 boys before the draft blew in. For girls 20 to 24, however, there is .94 of a man of 23 to 27 years per girl, almost an even break but not quite as nice as in 1951 when each such girl had 1.05 men of her mature group at her beck and call.

In those good old days an older girl had her man (in statistical theory) and one-twentieth of an extra man for leverage purposes. Girls of 25 to 35 have more unmarried males of older years to angle for; about 1.15 man per girl, although there's a rumor in feminine circles that any man who has remained unharnessed until such an age of cynical unreason is hard to snare and probably is not worth the effort anyhow.

The Census Bureau is right in enumerating bushels of wheat without a heart flutter or regretful clucking. However, it does seem that statistics on this romantic theme should be served up with verbal trimmings—and in this case with crepe-bordered phrases of sadness.

Rustlers in Malaya

KOTA BAHRU, Malaya (AP) — Gangs of rustlers are rounding up cattle in lonely villages in North Malaya and taking them across the border into Thailand for sale to dealers.

Despite close cooperation between Malayan and Thai police, it has been difficult to detect stolen cattle being driven across the shallow Gelok River dividing the two countries, according to reports.

Unread Story

NORTON, Kan. (AP)—How closely do people read their newspapers? The Norton Daily Telegram ran the same small story, on Charles Lindbergh, in seven consecutive issues, before a reader piped up.

The editors noted wryly they'd have liked to describe the whole business as a readers' test—but admitted they hadn't noticed the repetition themselves.

Mr. Truman Takes to TV

("Ex-President Truman has signed to appear on a Sunday afternoon video program for youth sponsored by the Ford Foundation." — News item)

Announcer: "And now, ladies and gentlemen, a man some of you probably remember, the former President, Mr. Harry S. Truman!"

Mr. Truman: "I am happy to be with you today. TV is here to stay. And at the price I am getting I wish I were. If the TV audience has any difficulty placing me, I take this occasion to identify myself.

"I am the father of Margaret Truman. I come to you through Ford, let General Motors, Charlie Wilson and other Republicans like it or lump it. My life's saga may now be summed up 'From Missouri Farm to the White House and from the White House to Sunday Video'

"Ford and the Trumans have much in common. Both made hitchhiking easy and aroused in the American character the yen to go places sitting down Ford gave the masses the auto. The Democrats gave them time payments and money out of the relief and Social Security checks for oil, gas and rubber.

"I am for youth I wish I had been strong enough for it to get Dick Nixon instead of Alben Barkley on my ticket last year. There is nothing youth can't do — except beat Eisenhower.

"My friends, the Ford Workshop strives for the new and different. I may not be new as a TV attraction but as a Sunday afternoon offering for the teen-agers I am certainly different. This is a program aimed at the young.

"I am smart enough to know that to hold the young to any TV channel there should be a mystery shooting, an FBI whodunit and some episodes from Deadwood. I should come on this program astride a pinto pony, pursue stage robbers and save the New England schoolma'am from the James Boys, if I want a renewal.

"The Workship's last program was Omnibus. I wasn't on it but everybody else was. Maybe Ford is just correcting the oversight. Ford didn't care what Omnibus cost, but no matter how much he spent he found the program completely eclipsed within a few hours by another member of the Truman family working with Jimmy Durante, Ezio Pinza and Helen Traubel.

"I wish to say one thing If Margaret follows me today on TV it will mean a family breakup. "I am asked to give a message to youth. Anybody who has tried to interest youth in a message on a nice cool September afternoon knows what a job I have been handed.

"But we Democrats are out of work and will try anything. My message to you is to work hard, and strive to reach the top You have reached the top when Durante is on the same program. Hitch your wagon to a star, aim high and vote the straight Democratic ticket!"

Announcer: "And now we say farewell to beautiful Missouri with its colorful stretches of political acumen, leave the golden fields of the Ford Foundation in our wake and move slowly back to station identification, a few commercials and the Ed Sullivan show."

Courage Fails at Last Minute

Pupil Survives First Day, School OK

HOMETOWN, U.S.A. (AP) — It was a one of those big times that try little men's souls.

For weeks Junior had bravely bragged to old Mrs. Kindly, the neighbor next door, "Well, I won't be able to come over and play with you and freckles so much anymore. You know I'm starting in kinnergarden."

And Mrs. Kindly would say, "Oh, dear, we'll miss you so." And Freckles, her cocker spaniel would look sad, and Junior would trot back home feeling very, very important.

But now it was D-Day, when kindergarten actually opened, and as H-hour itself approached junior didn't feel important at all. He felt lonely and lost, and more of his courage oozed away each moment.

"Please, Mama, I don't want to go to school," he pleaded desperately as his mother, Mrs. Frank Granber, helped him into his new suit

"Why not?"

"What good will it do me?" he asked. "I can't even read or write."

But he rode, a stunned and stricken captive, with her to school. He was silent all the way and he remained silent after meeting his new teacher. As she left, Mrs. Granber's heart almost broke at seeing her son standing there apart from the other children, forlorn and wistful.

When she returned a few hours later, however, she was met not by a small boy but a little man. Junior clambered confidently into the front seat, then turned and waved at a little red-haired girl running toward another car:

"G'by, Elsie. See ya t'morrow."

"Who is Elsie, lambie?" asked Mrs. Granber.

"She's my sweetheart. And don't call me lambie."

"She's your what?"

"My sweetheart. Some boy pushed her, so I pushed him, so she said we must be sweethearts, as only sweethearts save each other from mean people. So I said I didn't mind, and she put this ring on my finger and said I was to wear it forever an' ever."

He held up a finger with a cigar band on it.

"And did you meet any other nice little playmates?" asked mother uncomfortably.

"Naw, just Elsie. Boy, you ought to see her play bean bag! She beat everybody. C'mon, let's get home" —his accent sounded like his father's—"I'm hungry."

When they reached their house, they saw old Mrs. Kindly waiting on her front porch with a glass of milk and a peanut butter sandwich to welcome the young scholar. Junior threw Freckles a manly pat, submitted to a kiss and gobbled halfway through the sandwich before replying to Mrs. Kindly's query as to how he had done his first day in school.

"Swell," he bragged. "I'm in the chicken tracks row awready. The teacher had us all try to write the first letter of the alphrabet—that's 'a'—and when she saw mine she said, well, well. I guess I'd better put you in the chicken tracks row. Elsie's in the chicken tracks row, too."

"Now isn't that nice, dear," laughed Mrs. Kindly, squeezing him. "Why, in another year you'll both know all 26 letters of the alphabet, and be ready to go to college."

"Twenty-six letters in the alphrabet!' said Junior, stunned. "And after kinner-garden me and Elsie will have to go to college?"

He became moodily silent and couldn't be coaxed out of it later during dinner. After he had been put to bed, his mother heard sounds from his room and said, "Frank, go see what that child is up to."

Her husband opened the door, and saw Junior stuffing his cowboy suit and toy gun in a small bag. Then Mrs. Granber heard the following conversation through the half-opened door:

"What're you planning to do with the bag, son?"

"Take it to kinner-garden t'morrow, daddy."

"You don't need a cowboy suit there. Now tell daddy the truth, son."

"Promise you won't tell Mama?"

"Okay, I promise."

Well, after school t'morrow me and Elsie are gonna gun away and get married and go out west and be cowboys."

"Aren't you rushing things a bit, son."

"Well, gee, daddy, when you and mama were sweethearts you didn't have to go all the way through kinner-garden and learn the whole alpha-bet before you got married, did you?"

"You got a point there, son. Your mother was still having trouble with the last five letters of the alphabet when she married me But have you asked Elsie about this trip?"

"I don't have to. She says we're sweethearts, and she wants to be a cowboy, too, so—"

"Hmmmmmmmm."

"Daddy, can I borry a dollar from you? Elsie might get hungry and want a san'wich"

"We-e-e-l-l-l, I guess I can spare you a buck. Here it is. Now go on to sleep. Your bag is packed, good night, son. I'll turn out the light."

When her husband came out and closed the door behind him, Mrs. Granber demanded, "Have you gone stark crazy — giving that child, a mere baby, money to elope with?"

"Oh, I think little Elsie will give him a quick brushoff tomorrow," said Frank tolerantly.

"But suppose she doesn't. How can you tell what children will do?"

"Well, even if she decides to go west with Junior, I have an idea that you and Elsie's mother will be right on hand to break up the trip—and probably the romance."

"But, Frank—"

"Listen, you let Junior tote that bag to school tomorrow," said her husband. "He'll learn more he needs to know about women in these two days than I did in 25 years. We sent him to kindergarten to get an education, didn't we? Well, let the boy learn"

Youth Reckons Cost of Living

Nickel No Longer Price of Kid's Dream

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Everyone knows New York City is inhabited by a bunch of fast-living grasshoppers who toss away their money with no thought of the morrow.

Yep, that's us, fellows. If we can't spend our dough quick enough with both hands, we kick it away with our feet

As the old Broadway saying goes, "Who wants to be the richest guy in the cemetery?" A guy who isn't living beyond his means just isn't living.

But guess what's happening—right here in the neon-lit midst of the world's greatest one-way primrose path. Why, a herd of thrifty young ants is springing up, a generation infected by the old squirrelly idea that it pays to put away a few acorns for a rainy day.

Who are these young codgers? Well, they were turned up in a survey of 3,620 children between 6 and 11 years old. And it turned out that one out of five already had somehow or other picked up the old-fashioned habit of saving part of his pocket money each week Most averaged between 25 and 50 cents.

The survey, made by the Gilbert Youth Research Organization for the Washington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn., estimated the city's one million sub-teenagers are stashing up to $150,000 a week in their piggy banks. This, of course, includes emergency withdrawals to help their parents out of a tight spot.

The bankers thought this showed a mighty healthy attitude on the part of the young savers. But an old wastrel I showed the figures to only grumbled enviously:

"Imagine children of such tender years having a sum like $150,000 a week within reach of their grimy little paws. I trust the little monsters are saving it for a sensible purpose, such as buying mink coats or entertaining chorus girls.'

However, the kids who indicated any immediate goal for their savings were stubbornly planning such typical small fry investments as model airplanes, doll dresses and bicycles.

Where do city children get their money? How much do they get, and how do they spend it? What do they really know about the value of money? The survey came up with some interesting answers.

Over half the kids get a regular weekly allowance. The majority of those in the 6-7 age bracket got 26 to 50 cents; those 8 to 9 from 51 to 99 cents, those 10 to 11 from 51 cents to a dollar or more. Only 10 per cent reported the best they could knick the old folks for was a dime or less.

One out of every five said they sometimes earned their own money, either for "being good" or by doing chores. Fully half of these also were savers, showing that the harder it is for a young fellow to get his dukes on dough the more reluctant he is to fritter it away on a grammer school blonde.

The average teen-ager consumes six candy bars and 5.2 bottles of pop a week. But the favorite vice of the 6-to-7-year-old child is ice cream, about seven servings a week if he can buy them. His interest in wilder pleasures — ice cream sodas, candy and pop—picks up as he matures.

It was estimated the kids gulp down 8 billion plates of ice cream a year. If your child says wistfully, "Gee, I'd like to have all that"—well, tell him that if he ate a serving every minute, it would take him 15,360 years to eat it all. And, of course, all he'd say to that is, "I guess I wouldn't have to hurry, would I, dad?"

As to the movies (hold on, Hollywood, bad news ahead), the survey said a majority of 6-to-11-year-old children went to the movies at least once a week 10 years ago, but now only 10 per cent do. In six out of 10 homes the kids reported Hopalong Cassidy now rides into their living rooms via television—for free.

When asked what they or their parents could buy for a penny, 841 of the 3,620 kids said flatly, "nothing." And 53 said the same thing about a nickel

Kind of makes you feel sad and old doesn't it—to hear of even one kid who no longer can buy a dream with a nickel?

Two Uninjured as Auto Overturns; Driver Cited

A Prospect youth and his Marion passenger escaped uninjured when their car went out of control Thursday night on Route 47, three and four-tenths miles east of Prospect in Marion County, and overturned in a ditch.

Highway patrolmen from Marion said the car, driven by George Nichols, 19, of Prospect, was traveling east when it went out of control on a curve. The vehicle swerved off the right side of the road to overturn in a ditch on the left side of the road. The car was demolished. The driver and a passenger, Charles Hesson, 18, of Flies Ave., escaped injuries

Nichols was arrested for driving to the left of the center and was cited to appear today in Municipal Court.

Teams Meet in Final Game Today

Braves Blast Bums' Drive To Cinch Flag in 9-8 Win

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

The handwriting is on the wall but all of a sudden the Milwaukee Braves can't read.

The stubborn Braves still seem to be operating on the theory that the National League pennant race is a two-team affair. And they're ready to smack down any one who says it isn't.

Brooklyn's dashing Dodgers descended upon the brewing center yesterday primed to wrap up their second straight flag. They needed just one more victory. The celebration was arranged and the brass flew in from Brooklyn headquarters for the whing-ding. They're still waiting for the party.

Out at Milwaukee's County Stadium last night one Andy Pafko made the Dodgers realize that $50,000 was only money. He hit a home run with a man on base in the sixth inning and he won the game for the Braves with a 10th inning homer after two were out. The score was 9-8.

With 13 games to play the Braves now trail the Dodgers by 12. They meet for the final time today.

Pafko was sold by Brooklyn to the Braves for $50,000 during the winter and the Dodger officials went to great pains to advise the fans that Pafko was no longer necessary. Since his departure Brooklyn has used almost everybody on the roster in left field.

The deal didn't set well with Pafko at the time and after last night's game-winning homer, Pafko declared:

"I hope O'Malley (Walter O'Malley, the Brooklyn president) saw that one."

O'Malley did. He was there for the party.

In the American League the two top teams both lost. The New York Yankees bowed to Detroit 3-2 in 10 innings and Cleveland lost to Washington 6-4. Chicago kept its mathematical pennant chances alive with a 9-4 verdict over Philadelphia.

The Yankees lead the Indians by 10 games and the White Sox by 13. Any combination of six New York victories and Cleveland losses will give the Yankees their fifth straight pennant.

In other games yesterday the St. Louis Cardinals assured Pittsburgh of a last place finish with a 5-3 decision, Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 6-5 and Chicago won its seventh straight, 5-2, over the New York Giants. The lowly St. Louis Browns stopped Boston 2-0.

Ted Gray pitched and batted the Tigers to victory over the Yankees. He scattered six hits and scored the winning run in the 10th when he tripled and rode home on a long fly by Harvey Kuenn. Yogi Bera and Joe Collins homered for the Yankee runs.

At Washington the Senators stymied Bob Lemon in his attempt to win his 20th game, wrapping up the decision with a three run splurge in the eighth inning.

Duane Pillette blanked the Red Sox on three singles.

Virgil Trucks of the White Sox hung up his 19th victory and aided his own cause at Philadelphia by driving in three runs, two of them on a home run.

The Cubs pounded New York pitching for 11 hits and Bob Rush held the Giants to four safeties. The Cubs hadn't won seven in a row in seven years.

Robin Roberts of the Phils, who won his first 19 games breezing and who has been struggling ever since, was beaten again in his attempt to win his 22nd. A six-run Cincinnati uprising in the seventh inning kayoed him.

St. Mary Downs Favored Fostoria 7-6

Irish Score Comes Early On Kilbury's 13-Yard Run

By JOHN SHORT
Marion Star Sports Editor

St. Mary pulled the first upset of the grid season Friday night in the Fostoria preview with a 7-6 win over highly favored Fostoia High School in an abbreviated contest. The Irish capitalized on an early break to score before two minutes of play elapsed.

Mike Anderson set up the locals' only score when he recovered a fumbled kickoff at the Fostoria 21-yard marker. Four plays later, Ted Kilbury, Irish speedster, skirted end fo the touchdown. Butch Merchant had plunged for a yard on the first play from scrimmage and Larry Ryan in two attempts had carried to the 13. Kilbury scooted over from there.

Ballenger Converts

Jerry Ballenger, who has been shifted from a backfield post to a guard spot, converted. However, a backfield in motion penalty nullified the point and Ballenger was forced to try again. This time he split the uprights from the seven.

A tightly-knit Irish defense held the Fostoria attack to a net gain of six yards in the ensuing series and the Redmen were forced to kick. Butch Merchant took the punt at his own 20-yard marker and twisted his way upfield to the 42. A clipping penalty set the Irish back to their 28. Roger Micheli picked up two yards and Anderson plunged for six before an incomplete pass forced the Irish to kick.

The Fostoria crew put the ball into play at their own 34 and the attack began clicking. Bob Radcliff hit tackle for 11 and Jim McClung picked up nine. A Hubert Landers to Jim Arwood pass was nullified by an offside penalty but Landers hit Radcliff at the Irish 42. Ted Kilbury was the first casualty of the seasan when he belted Radcliff after the completion. Kilbury was still shaken up after the game. Landers connected with Arwood at the Irish 20 as the clock ran out but a final pass fell incomplete at the 20.

Experiment With Air Attacks

Both teams experimented with their aerial attacks in the second half but neither was able to move until Fostoria's McClung intercepted a Micheli pass at the Irish 31. The Redmen tried a play around end which failed to gain and Landers went through the line on a delayed buck for a first down at the St. Mary three. With Merchant, Campton, Kelly and Quinn spearheading the defense, St. Mary stopped Landers in two attempts to sneak into the end zone. Duane Pierce finally scored from the one.

Pat Thornton was foiled in his try for the point by a bad pass from center and the Irish retained a 7-6 lead. A series of line plays by the Irish ran out the clock. Twenty-eight seconds were left when the host team hit paydirt.

The appearance of Coach Ray Robbins' crew was part of the fourth annual preview at Fostoria. The event is sponsored by the Fostoria Boosters Club and proceeds go to high school athletics in that city.

Other Preview Winners

In the other two games, Fostoria St. Wendelin played Bowling Green's Bobcats to a 6-6 standstill and Rising Sun bumped Van Buren, 6-0.

During an intermission, the Boosters Club crowned its queen. She was Marlene Arndt, a member of the senior class at Fostoria High School.

Kilbury was groggy from the first-half injury at the end of the game. His tackle was one of many clean, hard stops made by the Irish defenders. Ted was shaking off the effects of the stop this morning but probably will be ready for scrimmage Monday night.

THE YANKEES ARE BUBBLING. Yankee Centerfielder Mickey Mantle, one of the two youngest members of the roster of the 1952 World Champions, blows bubble gum as he stands in center field at the start of sixth inning of a game with the Chicago White Sox at Yankee Stadium at New York City. Moments later, the bubble gone, Mantle ranged deep to take a fly ball from the bat of Sox' Pitcher Sandy Consuegra.

Grid Brownies Score 20-14 Win Over Bears

HIRAM, Ohio (AP)—Featuring a ground game powered by fullback Chick Jagade, Cleveland's football Browns kept their record against the Chicago Bears clean last night with a 20-14 win.

Now the Cleveland club can settle down to preparations for a pair of games against the Green Bay Packers. They meet the Wisconsin club in Cleveland a week from tonight for an exhibition game, and then open the season Sept. 27 against the Packers in Milwaukee.

Jagade was the standout in the Browns' rushing game in Chicago, and a couple of defensive performers gave the Browns a lift.

Brownie quarterback Otto Graham tried only five passes in the whole rain-soaked game, and completed only one, but that was an important one to Dante Lavelli for 21 yards in the first touchdown drive.

In contrast, the Bears took to the air. They closed with a rush, as they so often do, and scored two touchdowns in the final period. The Bears had the edge in the statistics, 14 first downs to 10, total yardage 309 to 162, and passing yardage 222 to 21. Cleveland gained more yardage on the ground, 141 to 87. Jagade had 73 yards on 20 attempts.

Ran Renfro returned a punt 27 yards to his own 47 to start the first touchdown drive midway of the opening quarter. It took nine plays, Jagade getting 6, 1, 13 and 14 yards in 4 attempts, and the 1 completed pass taking the ball to the 4. Ken Carpenter picked up 3 yards and Graham scored on a quarterback sneak.

In the second period, mostly on George Blanda's passing, the Bears got to the Cleveland 5, but a Brownie lineman nicked a Blanda pass and linebacker Walt Michaels grabbed it and ran to the Chicago 11. Shortly after that Lou Groza kicked a 14-yard field goal.

With less than a minute to go in the first half, Renfro returned a punt 65 yards to the Chicago 33. The second touchdown came on a 24-yard drive by Jagade, the last 2 yards on his knees.

Cleveland's final scoring was in the third quarter, when Groza booted a 43-yard field goal.

Tommy O'Connell, a rookie quarterback, took over Chicago's passing in the second half, and engineered both the Bears' touchdowns.

Lemon Misses Win Number 20 As Nats Outscore Indians 6-4

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland's Bob Lemon missed last night, and Washington's Bob Porterfield tries today to become the first American League pitcher to win 20 games this season.

The two clubs meet today for the last time this year, and the Nats' 6-4 victory last night against Lemon makes it possble for them to break even against the second-place Tribe, which has won 11 of 21 between the two thus far.

A three-run rally in the eighth sent Lemon to his 14th defeat and delayed his chance to hang up his fifth 20-victory season in the last six campaigns. The victory went to Frank Shea, his fourth triumph over the Tribe.

Al Rosen and the Nats' Mickey Vernon each got one hit in three at-bats for a stand-off in their battle for the league batting championship. Vernon's average is .332 to Rosen's .327. It was a double by Vernon after Eddie Yost's triple that scored the game's first run in the first inning.

Ed FitzGerald's fifth - inning double scored Wayne Terwilliger, who had singled, and FitzGerald came home on Yost's single to put the Nats ahead 3-0.

Rosen's single leading off the seventh was the third hit of the game off Shea, and resulted in a run when Wally Westlake and Dale Mitchell followed with singles. In the eighth the Tribe tallied two more to tie the score—Bill Glynn spotting a double between singles by Lemon and Larry Doby.

Although singles by Lemon and Mitchell produced another Cleveland run in the ninth, the trio Washington got in the eighth was too much to overcome.

A fumble by Mitchell on FitzGerald's single with two out provided the game-clinching run.

Upper, Forest Win in Preview

UPPER SANDUSKY — Upper Sandusky's Rams and Forest's Rangers turned in victories in abbreviated contests of the annual preview here Friday night.

Upper Sandusky tripped Kenton 14-0 and Forest downed Richwood 7-0.

The Rams scored once in each half of their tilt with Kenton's Wildcats. Halfback Danny Gerber scored both touchdowns, one a 65-yarder with six seconds remaining in the game. Dave Kuenzli booted both extra points.

Harold Wedertz scored the winning Forest touchdown midway in the second half of the game with Richwood. The tally was set up by an interception of a Richwood pass by Robert Johnson. He booted the extra point.

A special band program at halftime with a Sesquicentennial theme highlighted the night. Bands from each of the four participating schools took part. The bands formed the numerals 1803 then revolved to 1953.

Upper Sandusky hosts Columbus Mifflin next Friday in a non-league game.

Seven Harding High School cheerleaders were chosen at the school's first pep rally of the year Friday afternoon in the high school gymnasium.

Chosen by a joint committee of faculty and student members, the cheerleaders consist of three seniors, two juniors, and two sophomores.

The seniors are Sherry Caris, Beverly McCurdy, and Barbara Thayer. Sue Foreman and Judy Stein are juniors. The two sophomores picked are Carol Blair and Linda Larkin.

Mrs. Jane Oliphant is the faculty sponsor for the girls. They will be present at the pre-season opening game against Newark tonight.

Head football coach William Howison made the introduction of the other coaches to the student body. He introduced Louis Ralston, James Lawler and Elvin Beach.

L. G. Jones, music supervisor, led the students in a practice singing of the alma mater and the fight song for the first time this season.

Principal Cecil Gabler announced that all pep rallies in the future would be held at the gymnasium.

Centerburg Makes Only Mid-Buckeye Loop Preview Tally

MT. GILEAD — Centerburg scored a lone touchdown against Big Walnut for the only score in the Middle Buckeye Conference preview at the Mt. Gilead School athletic field last night. Right halfback Buford Stopher ran 20 yards through right tackle for six points.

Elm Valley and Utica opened the annual event in a two-period tie contest. Play centered between the Utica 20 and 40-yard lines most of the game. Elm Valley threatened from the air and mixed line plays but were unable to penetrate the opponents goal line. No first downs were registered during the first quarter.

In the second pairing, Centerburg played on even terms with Big Walnut before a crowd of 1500 fans when Stopher scored the only TD midway in the second quarter. Mt. Gilead and Elm Valley bands played between games.

Cardington, last year's champions were outdowned by Mt. Gilead, five to two in a two-quarter exhibition that resulted in no scoring. Both teams made a scoring threat late in the final period as Ted Moody tossed a 16-yard pass to John Staley which stopped at the Card's 22. Cardington's Dale Shaffer then intercepted another aerial try by Mt. Gilead and ran 40 yards before being pulled down by the safety man.

Caledonia, Chesterville Also Winners

LaRue Beats Claridon 7-6 In Double-M Preview Tilt

A fighting LaRue squad succeeded in edging a scrappy Claridon 7-6 in one of three Double-M six-man football league preview tilts played last night at Claridon. They tied for the championship last fall.

Claridon's Hornets were first to score when Dan Johnston, end, scooped up a LaRue fumble at the 35 yard line and scampered across the goal line. The try for point after touchdown failed, during the first period of the six-man football prevue.

LaRue unleashed an aerial attack in the second period to place the ball on the 4 yard stripe. Halfback Wayne Thompson went through the center of the line to score and Larry Hickman ran around his own left end for the extra point.

Passes flew aplenty in the Caledonia-Johnsville tussle. Paul Layman tossed 20 yards to Joe Green at the 4 yard marker and on the next play circled his own left end for paydirt. The pass try failed. Paul Layman threw his second 20-yard pass to Bob Dickerson who moved in five yards to the goal zone. A pass play Paul Lyman to Don Shearer scored the extra point. Johnsville came back strong with Don Rinehart's 15-yard aerial to Don Fey and a 20-yard run for TD. Caledonia 13, Johnsville 6.

Chesterville was ahead of Marengo after two periods 12 to 0. Dick Taylor romped 36 yards around right end for the first TD early in the first peroid. A 25-yard pass by Dick Perkins was caught by halfback Craig who went three more yards for the final TD, to complete the Chesterville scoring. Marengo lost on downs at the Chesterville ten as the preview ended.

Ted Dennison, vice-president of the league conducted the drawings. Supt. A. B. Augenstein was in charge of arrangements. Officials were Strimer and Geesman, of Ohio Wesleyan University. Sparta and Waldo were not scheduled to play.

Redlegs Belt Phils' Roberts For 6-5 Win

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Redlegs' big winning streak stood at two today and, all things considered, the Cincinnati ball club was happy to count 'em.

The Philadelphia Phillies started Robin Roberts last night in quest of his 22nd victory. For six innings, it looked like the Robin had it in his nest by a 1-0 margin. But a big 6-run splurge in the seventh gave it to the Redlegs 6-5.

Prexies Meet Newark Eleven

Harding participates in its first football game of the season tonight when it hosts Newark High School in the "Booster Club Night" preview at the Stadium at 8 p.m.

Four eight-minute quarters of action are scheduled. Fans will probably see the varsities of both schools playing the first half and the reserves in the second session.

The Harding Booster Club, sponsors of the game, are going all out to make it a big event. They are urging all Marionites to boost the team and Harding's band will perform at halftime.

Coach Pete Howison's team, the lightest in years, will be heavily outweighed bythe visitors. Newark averages 176 pounds to the man in the line and 148 pounds per man in the backfield.

Newark is reported good defensively and better than last year's team which wound up with a 3-6 mark.

BASEBALL TOURNEY OPENS

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Eighteen teams from 10 states open play today in the 39th annual National Amateur Baseball Federation Tournament.

Jones, high point man at the track, won the 300-lap feature at the track July 4.

World Bank Conference Ends

Foreign Countries Press U.S. for Free Trade Pact

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government appeared to be under strong pressure today from other countries fiscal representatives to lead the way to convertible currencies and freer trade.

The 55-nation World Bank and Monetary Fund came to the end of an annual meeting, but Reginald Maudling, United Kingdom representative, is staying here until Wednesday. Officials would not comment on Maudling's extended stay, but it aroused speculation that he hoped to learn in private talks with U.S. Treasury officials what help Britain can count on from the United States if she drops restrictions on free exchange of the pound sterling.

Turkey Seeks Funds

Another bank-fund governor remaining after the close of the meeting was Hassen Polatkan, Turkish minister of finance. Polatkan's aims also were undisclosed, but were thought to center about his country's new program to attract private investment, particularly dollar investment.

The governors of the World Bank gathered for a closed meeting at which they were to consider a recommendation from the bank's committee on finance and organization for the possible suspension of Czechoslovakia, only Soviet bloc member of the bank and fund. The committee recommended that the governors vote to suspend Czechoslovakia unless by Dec. 31 she has paid the remaining $625,000 of her capital subscription to the bank.

The governors of the bank and fund—for the most part the same men—were also scheduled to vote during the day on a chairman for the coming year.

Discuss Private Investments

An international panel of businessmen and bankers yesterday discussed the extent to which private investment, especially dollar investment, might replace foreign aid.

There was a generally optimistic tone that measures taken abroad to reassure investors would increase the pace of private investments.

But Maudling said the resources of the monetary fund would not be big enough to meet the calls for dollars which would result from any concerted move toward currency convertibility. This was regarded as an all but open suggestion that the United States step forward with a sizeable dollar stabilization fund.

Awards Given At Green Camp Honor Service

Special to The Star

GREEN CAMP—A campfire and court of honor ceremony was the main event of Troop 24 Boy Scouts of America of Green Camp meeting held at the Methodist Church Sunday night. This heralded the round-up for new Scouts in the community. It was estimated that more than 100 people attended the ceremonies.

The program opened with group singing lead by Dean Johnson, field representative from the Harding Area Council, followed by the campfire ceremony by the Order of the Arrow with Dick Bolinger of Marion in charge. Several Indian dances followed the lighting of the council fire. The Rev. J. W. Spears, pastor of the Green Camp Methodist Church, offered prayer.

Troop 46 from Wesley Church, Marion was introduced along with their scoutmaster, Roy Buckingham and assistant scoutmaster, Harold Stafford. Cicero Diehl, troop committee chairman gave the welcoming address to all visitors.

The Court of Honor was in charge of Edwin Schwaderer, scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster, Ronald Lindley. Those receiving tenderfoot awards were William Shaw Jr., Pat O'Hara, Donny Baker, Steve Ward and Michael Franklin from Troop 46. Evan Christian received second class rank.

Miniature pins of the boys scouting rank was given to each mother. Scout lapel pins were awarded to Cicero Diehl, troop committeeman, Victor Delong, adult advisor, Ronald Lindley, assistant scoutmaster, and Rev. J. W. Spears.

The following boys received first aid merit badges, Gary Delong, Tommy Reynolds, Jim Kennard, Jay Flach, Bobby Williams, Darryl Rice, Harrold Wasserbeck and Charles Dilsaver. All boys recieved "Get Out the Vote" pocket pieces.

Gary Delong, senior patrol leader presented a plaque to the Methodist Men, a souvenir of the Michigan camping trip. Harold Hedges president of the organization accepted the gift. The benediction was given by Tommy Reynolds.

The troop mothers will hold a bake sale for the Scouts in Marion Saturday Sept. 29.

Young Bicyclists Fined by Bucyrus Police Department

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — Fifteen youthful Bucyrus bicycle riders are "pounding the pavements" this week as a result of a crackdown by the police department on traffic violations by bike riders.

Police Chief Arthur L. Stuckert said that bicycles were taken away from 13 boys and two girls for a one-week period after they were cited for various traffic regulations including "running" red lights.

The chief said it was the first time that his department has deprived youths of their bicycles, but that the new policy would be continued in dealing with future traffic violators.

Chief Stuckert said several parents of the youths had called the police department and complimented members for their action.

The California youth had been indicted by the grand jury on the charge and had been judged legally sane following an observation period at the Lima State Hospital.

The youth had admitted breaking into the home of Clarence Pichard the morning of Aug. 7 and taking a loaded revolver and knife valued at approximately $65.

Electrical Storm Hits Kenton Area Buildings

Special to The Star

KENTON—Lightning during an electrical storm here Friday brought about fires which destroyed two barns and caused damage to two homes in the city.

One barn, one mile south of Pfeiffer Station, owned by George Elsasser, was destroyed and contents of hay and straw burned. A calf was rescued from the barn and another had been killed when struck by the lightning. A barn on the Robert Baughman farm, north of Dunkirk, was destroyed and hay inside the barn burned.

A large tree was struck by lightning and fell across the street, breaking out a front window of one residence, and tearing considerable spouting off another house.

It is estimated that U. S. chickens produce about 100 million pounds of feathers a year.

Methodist Delegates Return From Lima District Conference

Delegates from Methodist churches of Marion and the county were among 400 attending the Lima District Missionary Institute held Thursday night at First Methodist Church in Alger. A dinner preceded the meeting.

Rev. Charles A. Sauer, missionary returned from Korea, spoke, and those present were divided into three discussion groups for instruction on the denomination's Advance Program. Special present emphasis in the Advance set for the quadrennium running through 1956, is support for a program of church extension, youth camp sites, general board of missions, national and world mission work, and continuing of the "Advance Specials." Goal for the Lima District is $113,680 from the total of $1,086,159 set for the Ohio Annual Conference. Amount for the whole Ohio Area is nearly $2,000,000. This is over and above regular World Service support, it was explained.

Giving a glimpse of the need for assistance in the mission field in which he has served many years, Rev. Sauer called the situation in Korea "critical." He pointed out that Korea's record of casualties in the recent conflict alone has been "more than the United States has lost since the time of George Washington." In describing the crowded condition of South Korea he told of the common situation of two families living in the area "occupied by a single parking space in this country." First act of the Communists when taking over a territory is to detain and menace the Christian leaders, ministers, missionaries, doctors, and teachers, he said. With Mrs. Sauer he will leave next week to return to his work there.

Announcements were made concerning the trip to Korea of Bishop Hazen G. Werner, head of the Ohio Area. Having visited Japan and Formosa previously, he was scheduled to arrive Friday in Korea where he will remain until Oct. 1. On his return to this country he will make a report to Ohio Methodist people. At an "Ohio Methodist Town Hall Meeting" Oct. 9 in Columbus at Memorial Hall, he will be heard by representatives gathered from Ohio's 1,935 Methodist churches.

The Advance work for the Lima District is headed by Rev. Harold F. Kellogg, district superintendent, who presided at the Alger meeting. For Marion County which includes 10 Mehodist charges, Rev. Walter C. Eyster of Epworth Church in Marion is chairman.

However, he was not needed. As the show wound up, she addressed the audience simply:

"God bless you for being so kind."

Clergy

script disclosed the subject of communism in religion was considered exclusively.

Kornfeder estimated there are 600 clergymen in the United States who are "secret' members of the Communist party. He said between three and four thousand others are "among the fellow-traveling category." Many more, he said, were duped into aiding Communist fronts, but "the temporary sympathizers will fade out."

The boring from within was not aimed at any particular church group, the witnesses said, and was spearheaded by unofficial movements which sought to identify themselves with churches.

Little Luck With Priests

In the Catholic church, Kornfeder said, the infiltration "is mainly among laymen." He commented that Communists "had some experience trying to line up the Catholic priests and, well, something usually happened pretty quickly . . ."

Chairman Jenner (R-Ind) of the Senate internal security subcommittee revealed yesterday that his group had information of "an effort to establish a Communist cell in Catholic organizations."

Jenner cited testimony given here in June by two witnesses described as "active participants" in such an attempt. Senate sources indicated the try at Catholic subversion was made some 10 or 15 years ago and failed.

The two witnesses before Jenner's group were named as Harold King and Thomas Davin, both of New York City. King was listed as a high school teacher and Davin said he resigned as a magazine editor because "I considered that it gave scandal for me to be called before this committee."

Both men, asked whether they tried to penetrate Catholic groups a Communist conspiracy, refused to answer on grounds the Constitution guaranteed their right to avoid giving possibly self-incriminating testimony.

However, King testified he had been a member of the Catholic Committee for Human Rights, an organization now defunct.

Fuel Gas Company Begins Installing Electronic 'Genius'

An 8,000-pound electronic "slide rule" that solves, within hours, pipeline problems which formerly took months, is being installed in Columbus for use by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

The $62,000 machine, one of the first in the nation, will be able to duplicate the 108 miles of pipeline network that make up the gas delivery system inside Marion, or the equivalent in other cities serviced by the company. Electric current then takes the place of gas and specially designed tubes substitute for pipelines. By easily made changes in the circuits, engineers can experiment with combinations of pipe sizes and different places for gas to enter the city system. Each of these combinations would take months to work out mathematically. Besides solving immediate problems, the electronic "brain" can show necessary additions for a five-year construction plan based on future gas requirements.

Developed by Dr. Malcolm S. Mellory, assistant dean of Cornell University's College of Engineering, the machine is called the Mellroy Pipeline Network analyzer. It was originally designed for water systems and was set up at the university in 1949. The analyzer was then adapted to gas distribution systems.

There are three of the analyzers in the nation, one at St. Louis LaClede Gas Co. and another at the Public Service Gas and Electric Co. of Newark, N. J.

Householders Spend Billions

Do-It-Yourself Movement Reported Growing Fast

The do - it - yourself movement among householders seems to be just getting up steam. According to one industry estimate, 2¾ billion dollars are being spent this year by handymen for lumber and other building supplies another half billion for paint, brushes and wallpaper. The total is rising yearly.

Because you have decided to repair those rickety back steps, build your own garage or fix that dripping faucet, you have the business world worrying out loud — and incidentally, for your benefit.

Paint dealers, lumber supply houses and other merchants are wondering if all this material we buy as amateurs, with free instructions thrown in, is going to offend their old customers, the contractors. This question has been summed up by Building Supply News in a report to the trade as follows:

"If you promote 'do-it-yourself' will you bite the hand that feeds you?"

Creates Jobs

To shorten a long story, the answer is that our enthusiasm for improving our homes actually is creating jobs for the contractors

"Very few contractors," says Building Supply News, "want to build a set of porch steps. But start a man out to build his own steps — or sell him some ready-made — and soon the whole porch will need a face-lifting. If the dealer has made a friend of the homeowner, he will get first crack at selling the materials for the porch remodeling — and a golden opportunity to suggest names of competent mechanics to do the job. Very little contractor trade is lost this way; a lot is created."

Distributors and retail dealers are acting on this advice, if you have noticed. A lumber company in Tulsa, Okla., for example, converted itself into a building material department store. All of its wares are arranged in convenient racks to appeal to the looker as well as the buyer. Like selling potatoes, scrap plywood (handy sizes for the handyman) is stacked in one department under a sign: "Plywood Shorts, 10 cents per pound."

Cash-and-Carry Store

A cash-and-carry pickup store was established by a Staten Island, N. Y., materials dealer, with a one-way auto route through the yards—Drive in Here—exit on a side street—past the cashier's window.

A Sioux City, Ia., lumber dealer keeps a Handy Andy on hand in his yards as a trouble-shooter for any amateur who decides the job is going to be too much for him This contractor Handy Andy not only gives with the know-how, but stands ready to finish the job when needed.

Information for do - it - yourselfers is being so widely published that corners of ye old iron-monger's shop resemble a book store. Working drawings and instruction folders make up sizable libraries. One power tool manufacturer recently submitted 36 booklets for review. These publications cover everything from "Getting the Most Out of Your Lathe" to all the things you can make in a home workshop.

New York Show

In fact, the do-it-yourself idea is being reduced to such understandable recipes that many women with new circular saws are now running circles around us so-called men of brawn. Last spring there was a do-it-yourself show in New York. Every third person visiting the show was a woman. One buxom housewife, buying plans for a coffee table, was asked "Is your husband going to build this?" To which she replied: "I'm going to make it myself. He's not the type."

More than 60,000 persons paid 75 cents a head to see that New York show. It was so popular that William S. Orkin, the originator, has had the name "Do-It-Yourself-Show" registered at the patent office. He now is preparing a national show to be held on Chicago's famous Navy Pier from Oct. 23 to 31. Orkin anticipates a gate of more than 100,000 for the Chicago show and already has Boston and Philadelphia on his schedule.

AMAZING RUSTPROOF RHEEM "COPPERMATIC" WATER HEATER HERE!
Marion homeowners can now own an automatic storage gas water heater that will not rust or fail from early corrosion. A tank of pure copper inside a tank of solid steel!
This new Rheem "Coppermatic" heater cannot rust — and withstands natural water corrosion many times longer than previous heaters. By longer service and heating efficiency, it will cut total water heating costs dramatically.
Rheem's capsule-shaped steel and copper tanks are "pressure-proved" to more than double normal operating pressures. This shape, plus multiple flues, gives far more heating area.
Copper is Ageless
Thin copper sheeting on the Statue of Liberty has resisted the weather of New York Harbor since 1885! Copper pipe remains usable after thousands of years! Rheem's complete inner tank is pure, rustless copper.

Aid for the Ailing House

By ROGER WHITMAN

Q.: The cellar does not continue under the bedrooms of my house. However, the space was dug out under the bedrooms creating a three-to-three-and-a-half-foot crawl space. These rooms were very cold last winter and hard to heat. Could the underside of the bedroom floors be insulated? I have put this off because I would like to do the job myself in the summer.

A.: Placing a thick moisture-proof blanket or batt type of insulation between the floor joists would help make the bedrooms more comfortable. In addition to this, it would be wise to cover the ground with a moistureproof and vaporproof paper with aluminum foil overlapping the sheets about ten inches. The sheets should also be lapped onto the foundation walls. Cement all the laps with an asphalt roof coating or roof cement. I do not think you will be bothered by condensation in the summer after the installation of insulating material.

Q.: The interior walls of our two-year-old home are of plasterboard. Now many of the nails are coming out and some of them have already come out, forcing the finishing plaster and paint to come off. What is the cause of this and how can I remedy it?

A.: I suspect that the nails used were too short and therefore are not holding in the wood studding. Remove all of the loose nails and use a nail that is at least one and five-eighths inches long. Drive the nailhead slightly below the surface of the plasterboard. Fill identations with spackle.

Q.: Two years ago we had a wooden porch put on the back of our house. The lumber was supposed to be seasoned, but evidently it was green. We have applied about six coats of paint but it always peels off down to the bare wood. There is no roof over this porch. We intend to remove the remaining paint and were advised to apply a prime coat of aluminum paint or regular paint with a high percentage of linseed oil. Would appreciate any advice you could give.

A.: Paint usually peels because of the presence of moisture in the wood. When this moisture is locked in by paint, the heat of the sun draws it to the surface, causing the paint film to blister and peel. Frequenly this condition is brought about by the lack of ventilation under the porch. The best solution in your case is to provide plenty of ventilation under the porch, then cover the floorboards with roofing canvas (not ordinary canvas) and paint it with any good-quality porch or deck paint.

MORROW HOSPITAL ISSUE SET

MT. GILEAD — A levy for operation of the Morrow County Hospital will be voted on this fall by Morrow County residents. The levy will be for .65 mills and would run for a period of five years. The levy will be in excess of the 10-mill limitation and will require a majority vote to pass. The levy would raise approximately $18,000 each year.

REMOVING old putty when replacing a broken window pane is a tough job unless the putty is softened first. Soak a piece of string in kerosene. Place it next to the putty and light it. Work in a small area at a time so the putty will not reharden before it can be removed. Don't use gasoline alone; it burns too fast. This is a tip from the idea pool of the American Builder, trade publication of home builders.

The highest one-day attendance at the Atlantic City race track was 31,378 on Aug. 23, 1952.

Marion Men Play Important Role in Antique Auto Tour

Three Marion men will have a part to play in keeping the Gildden Tour rolling through Marion County next Wednesday. They will be patrolling the highway in Delaware and Marion County to guard against any breakdowns that might plague the old model cars.

The three are Tom Kirwin, John Matthews and Horace Taber. They will cruise along Route 23 Wednesday equipped with gasoline, oil and a tow line to help any of the motorists who might become stranded in the trip.

The men will meet the tour at the Delaware County line and accompany it to the northern Marion County Line.

With over 300 cars in the tour, almost all of them over 25 years old, quite a few breakdowns are expected. One of the men will ride an ordinary passenger car, carrying gas, oil, water and a towing rope.

One of the others will ride a jeep, and will be equipped to do more complicated service jobs. The third man will be in a tow truck, and will have the job of pulling any stranded cars out of the ditches along the road. Kirwin, Matthews and Taber all are employes of the Gulf Oil Co. bulk plant in Marion.

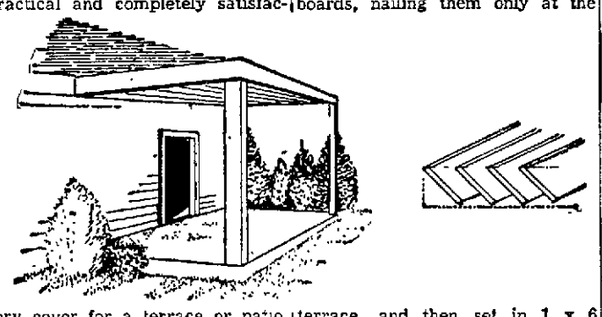
YOUR HOME . . . Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

An ever increasing number of homes have either a patio or terrace. Most of them have been built to take advantage of the sunny hours of the day. Although many of us like a lot of sun while we are out-of-doors, there are times when there is too much light and glare. Fixed, solid roofing is not quite appropriate for a terrace and awnings and other devices are expensive.

The illustration shown here is descriptive of an economical, practical and completely satisfactory cover for a terrace or patio. This type has been built a number of times, usually by the homeowner himself, and has proved satisfactory.



The work involved is simple, consisting of two 4 x 4 posts set at the corners of the paved terrace, and joined by a strip of 1 x 8, or heavier, board across the top front edge of the posts and running back to the house wall. Actually, that is the sum and substance of the job. The next step is to establish the angle at which the sun hits the terrace. This is the angle at which the sun hits the ing the posts. An excellent idea is to set in three or four of these boards, nailing them only at the terrace, and then set in 1 x 6 boards at an angle and running parallel with the vertical board jointop, so that they can be swung at a greater or lesser angle, until you have the effect you want on the terrace floor.

The result of a properly installed shade of this sort is a filtered sunlight, no glare, but plenty of ventilation and no interference at all with whatever breeze may exist. This type of covering does not hold rain, wind storms do not bother it and you can cover as much or as little of the terrace area as you wish.

After the lumber has been cut it should receive a heavy coat of paint before being assembled.

One-Act Play To Be Part of Annual Report

Family Service Society To Give Performance, Elect New Directors

Something new in the way of annual reports will take place in the form of a one-act, three-scene play, "Room for Love," to be presented by the Family Service Monday, Sept. 21. The business meeting, at which a new board of directors will be elected, will start at 8 p.m. in the music room at State Street Junior High School and will be followed by the play

Harold McCuen of Mansfield is directing the play. Taking part in the cast are Mrs. Richard Morgan, Mrs. Frederick W Rea, and Robert Halderman. McCuen and all members of the cast have volunteered their services.

Founder and director of the Children's Theater in Mansfield, McCuen has had wide experience in the theater. He attended the Northwestern University Drama school, had field placement with the Goodman Theater in Chicago, and was graduated from Cleveland Playhouse. Among his roles were the playwright in "Accent on Youth" for which he won the 1952 Helen Bacon Silver Bowl, Mr Browning in "The Barrett's of Wimpole Street," and narrator for the Columbia Concert Series of "Loves of the Composers" McCuen has also directed minstrel shows for the Am-Vets and dramatic plays for other groups in Mansfield and surrounding communities.

The Family Service Society, a Red Feather Agency of the Marion County Community Chest, is now in its second year of operation. All plans for the dramatic presentation have been organized by Mrs. Doris Maxwell, the Society's executive secretary and caseworker. The script, furnished by the Family Service Association of America, was revised and adapted for local use by Leonard Elliot of Howard Swink Advertising Agency Inc.

"We hope that 'opening night' will be attended by everybody in Marion who is interested in finding out what the Family Service Society is doing and what it means to our community," Mrs. Maxwell said.

New Fireproof Paneled Houses Shown by Galion Manufacturer

Special To The Star

GALION—A one-story fireproof home, built with interlocking panels, without separate frames, the invention of Robert K. McBerty of Galion, is being shown to the public this week The home is one of two built by McBerty and he resides in one.

McBerty, former head of one of Galion's leading industries, now devotes his time to the manufacture of the panels for his houses The firm is known as Glen Cottages Manufacturing Co. and is located at Crestline.

It takes only four days for four men to erect a 1,700-square foot home out of the Glen Cottage panels. This does not include the sealing, painting, plumbing, and other details.

A graduate of Ohio State University in 1923, McBerty has worked with basic materials in mining in the Midwest and Colorado, and at research and development in gypsum, glass, ceramics and metallurgy with several large companies. He has applied for five patents on his system. He already has one patent on a bubbled clay building material, granted 20 years ago. He came back to building seven years ago as the Glen Cottages Manufacturing Co and started the development of his panels three years ago.

The whole house is of fireproof panels locked together. It has no separate frames. The panels contain steel frames within them and they and their fastening are the structural strength of the house. The panels are all made with the same content except for size or for window or door apertures, whether for exterior walls, interior walls, or roof.

Each panel has notched steel side or end edges that interlock. When the panels are set together the edges form a sleeve and when a steel rod is slid through the sleeve like a pin in a hinge, the panels stay put Not only are adjacent wall panels pinned together in this fashion, but so are roof panels and walls at right angles. This is a pioneer type of construction with the frame built into the panel.

In a recent interview, McBerty said that in the construction of his Glen Cottages, he had three aims: to get away from standardized one-shape homes in the low-cost field; to free homes and home owners of fire hazards; and to afford construction forces yearround employment. This system of construction enables crews to build panels in winter and erect them in summer.

McBerty's new house is expected to sell between $14,000 and $15,000 It has gas-fired forced warm air heat with a perimeter system and floor registers. The return lines feed back through openings in the walls over closets.

McBerty explains that the interior and exterior finishes of his homes may be chosen from a wide variety of treatments to suit the individual. The floor plan may be as infinitely variable as the fancy of the customer, he said.

"Houdini," a technicolor real-life story of the great daredevil, Harry Houdini, will be the main attraction of a double feature playing Sunday through Tuesday at the Palace Theater. Starred are Tony Curtis in the title role, with Janet Leigh as his wife.

Completing the billing will be "Terror On A Train."

Thrills and romance are combined to tell the life story of one of showbusiness' most fabulous immortals of all time in "Houdini." The film picks up young Houdini doing a double act as a magician and a wild man in a New York street sideshow. In walks Bess and Houdini falls in love with her. A brief courtship follows and they are married.

They then barnstorm across the country with Bess becoming part of her husband's magic act, but she persuades him to give up showbusiness and get an "honest" job. He does, but when he startled a group of the nation's top magicians with his escape acts, there is no stopping him and he tours Europe and then returns to the United States and becomes a sensation.

Billed for Wednesday through Saturday is another double feature, "The War of the Worlds" starring Gene Barry and Ann Robinson, and "The Sun Shines Bright."

The former picture depicts an invasion which the tremendous power of the atom bomb is helpless to repel. The invaders are Martians who attempt to conquer Earth. The tale begins when a strange object, believed at first to be a meteor, lands near a California town. But a group of scientists soon discover that it is a space ship from Mars. When it seems that the inhabitants of Earth are doomed, a strange twist of fate intervenes and the invaders themselves are defeated.

Marion Schedules Pair Of Western Thrillers

"Four Faces West," the drama of a ruthless manhunt starring Joel McCrea, Frances Dee and Charles Bickford, and "Leadville Gunslinger" with Allan "Rocky" Lane and his stallion, Black Jack, will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion Theater.

The former film concerns itself with the dramatic manhunt for Ross McEwen, played by Joel McCrea, a glamorous Westerner who made just one slip away from the law. As a U. S. Marshal, Rocky Lane in the latter discovers that a gang of renegades are bent upon stealing the oil-rich land of a friend of his by forcing him into a mortgage foreclosure. Rocky even passes as an outlaw for a time in order to gain the outlaws' confidence and bring them to justice.

Billed for Tuesday and Wednesday are "Bedroom Diplomat" with Reginald Gardiner, and "The Art of Love" starring Danielle Darrieux with Albert Prejean.

Thursday through Saturday, the double feature attraction will be "On Top of Old Smoky," a Gene Autry outdoor action drama, and "Flying Squadron," plus 10 cartoons.

In "On Top of Old Smoky," Gene Autry plays the star of a singing show. Mistaken for a real Ranger in the tough town of Mountain City, he swings into action to help Miss Davis, the owner of a toll road who is having difficulties with the customers compelled to use her road.

Ohio Sets Four-Day Run For 'Inferno,' 3-D Movie

"Inferno," an outdoor thriller in 3-D and in technicolor, and "Dangerous Crossing," a mystery drama, will be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Ohio Theater.

The story of "Inferno," which stars Robert Ryan, Rhonda Fleming and William Lundigan, traces the character change in a spoiled, spiteful millionaire who, put to the test, proves himself with courage and endurance to be "quite a guy." Deserted by his faithless wife, played by Rhonda Fleming, and her secret lover, William Lundigan, Robert Ryan enacts a man who overcomes their plan that he should perish helplessly in the middle of a great desert.

Starring Jeanne Crain and Michael Rennie, "Dangerous Crossing" describes the desperate plight of a newly-married girl who, sailing on a trans-Atlantic liner, lives through a passage of sheer horror. Her husband suddenly vanishes and the girl begins to doubt her sanity when everyone denies ever having seen him. She struggles to regain her identity and the situation becomes more terrifying when it is obvious that someone is trying to murder her.

Billed for Thursday through Saturday is another double feature, "So This Is Love," in technicolor starring Kathryn Grayson, and "Belle of the Yukon" with Randolph Scott, Dinah Shore, Gypsy Rose Lee and Bob Burns.

"So This Is Love" is the story of Grace Moore, the Tennessee girl who rose from a small-town church choir through Broadway theatricals and Hollywood films to the highest rung of singers—the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York.

Runaway Steel Truck Crashes Ashland Bank

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—A truck carrying 30,000 pounds of steel rolled a mile and a half down a hill today and crashed into the wall of a bank in Ashland's business district, causing $50,009 damage.

The driver, Lewis Hodgett of Wooster, who suffered head, arm and leg injuries, was taken to Samaritan Hospital, where his condition was not reported serious

Hodgett said his brakes and engine failed at the entrance to the Ashland Corp, on Rt. 42, and he free-wheeled down the gradually inclined road, which leads to the main street of town.

He said he controlled only the steering of the vehicle, a double-trailer truck owned by A. J. Weigand Co of Dover, which was carrying five 6,000-pound sheet steel coils.

The driver told police he was going 35 to 40 miles an hour when his truck struck a wall of the First Federal Savings & Loan Assn, and gouged a 20-foot hole in the structure's side. No one was in the building.

Carl Schwartz, office manager, who estimated damages, said the bank's working area was demolished.

Farm Income Rises in Ohio

Ranks 8th in Nation; Was 9th in 1952

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio is moving up the national ladder in farm income even though its total is slightly lower for the first six months of 1953 than for the comparable 1952 period.

Ohio, for the first six months this year, was eighth among the states in farm income. Ohio was 11th in 1951 and ninth last year.

Iowa and California were first and second in the nation in farm income for the first half of 1953. Iowa's farmers took in $1,112,226,000 and California's collected $1,067,066,000 in the first six months this year.

Ohio's figures, as reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the Department of Agriculture, for the first half of both years: Livestock and dairy products: 1952—$368,696,000; 1953—$338,477,000.

Crops: 1952—$107,200,000; 1953—$125,955,000.

Totals: 1952—$475,896,000; 1953—$464,432,000.

The drop in Ohio farm income, the bureau said, was 2.4 per cent The decrease was in cash from livestock and dairy products.

Story of Bicycle Is Romantic Tale

WASHINGTON (UP) — The life history of the bicycle has been one long romantic ride.

The bicycle-built-for-two sparked romance as well as songwriters in the Gay Nineties. Bicycle racing reached its heyday around the turn of the century and champion racers were sports heroes.

But the bicycle had a slow and bumpy beginning. A Frenchman built the first bicycle in the latter port of the 18th century. It had no pedals and the rider had to make it go by pushing his feet on the ground. The English advanced the comfort of the new vehicle by adding an adjustable seat and arm rests. Later pedals were added to the front wheels which, because of their awkward position, quickly won for this model the name "boneshaker."

By the late 1860's the Americans had built a steam operated velocipede which had the dubious advantage of a steam boiler under the seat and a smoke stack at the rider's back.

The first practical bicycle was the high front-wheeled model introduced in the 1870's. The danger of being tossed over the handlebars at every bump appealed to the daredevils of the time and cycling became a nation-wide sport.

Bicycles improved with their popularity. Chain drive, coaster brakes, and pneumatic tires 1890's. Bicycle production leaped to 1,000,000 from 250,000 in the 10-year period 1889 to 1899. There are about 18,000,000 bicycles in use today.

The U. S. Army expects to save nearly $11,000,000 in one year by putting into practice more than 10,000 ideas for improved methods of operation submitted during 1952 by military and civilian employes of the Army. The ideas were chosen from more than 50,000 offered.

While returning from his North Pole discovery in 1909, Rear Adm. Robert E. Peary predicted "the aviators will be up here." Now daily flights are made over the area. Peary was also among the first to prophesy the importance of military supremacy in the air, says the National Geographic Society.

Fighting giraffes swing their long necks like baseball bats in an effort to knock each other off balance. They can deliver pile-driver blows with their cloven hoofs.

There are about 150,000 amateur radio stations in the world of which about 100,000 are in the United States.
